Thread: JP6 firmware

So I have a JP6s. It has not been rooted.

I've been unable to find any reliable information for this device.

Everyone is just trying to scam or sell outdated files they don't really know how to use.

I ordered a UART to USB adapter, hoping I'll be able to dump the fw via UART.

Has anyone had any success with UART/serial interface?

My tablet has been updated / brom locked.

What build? I'm working on 8.16.0

The UART is the four pins on the board with no port? You'd have to solder directly, right? Would that still require the mic jack interrupt?

has anybody at all connected? this is kinda crazy really considering that they still haven't completely shut us down, close (about 200ms) but not yet. I sincerely believe these things can be still gotten into. I'm working on a 5 wire now, needed to switch gears.

Sounds like everyone needs 8.16

Be careful of scammers, jpay customers are targeted when they are desperate for something. Just be careful, use an HF contract and use a middleman / MM

I don't know much about what this securus 8.16 platform is specifically, but make sure you check out safe trading Help Docs on HF & follow all rules
