Lexus rims on this thing is heresy but what can you do im the third owner it wasn't my choice Probably buying these later this year when the current owner gets his own rims reburbished, not super pretty looking (how the fuck do you scratch them up like that with a tire wall that large) but its cheap and OEM and thats good enough for me honestly not bad, OEM vibes hit different scratches give it character, makes it feel more lived-in cheap and functional, can't go wrong with that I love hearing this shit man. Natural born entrepreneurs are much needed in this society. How much of your money do you plan to allocate to investment at your age and what would you consider an adequate amount to put away each month (as %) to appreciate? Do you have plans to invest in real estate (most stable investment there is right now, sorry cryptocurrency bois) and grow your wealth further? Do you work strictly commission?

It took me until I was 25ish to make my first million but this was through sales.

appreciate the words man, real recognize real.

for investment, i'm about 50% to the future – crypto's got my back but real estate? that's the slow grind, and honestly, it's the only solid move right now. yeah, crypto's the future but if you don't own land, you're just renting space in the game.

i'm moving towards property, keeping it stealth mode, building up that passive income so i don't have to flex for a paycheck.

as for commission, it's how i eat, and i'm not stopping anytime soon. gotta stay hungry, but also smart – no room for mistakes when you're stacking.

it took me a while to hit the first mill, but now it's all about working smarter, not harder. stack it up and let the rest come to you.

Well yeah man, I'm sure you know; land is going go to be your most valuable asset in the books and we will not see anything remotely close to 2008 for a very long time. And yeah, keep that mentality bro and no slacking off even when you are running it up you gotta pretend like you aren't because the minute you begin to slip up it snowballs on you and getting back on that grind is not always the easiest.

Good for you though lad, definitely move in the direction of land/property estate investing IMHO but I cannot give you any financial advice.

you're right man, land's always gonna be the big play – it's the one thing they can't print more of. 2008 was a fluke, this time it's different, we're in a whole new game.

as for the grind, no slacking, i keep the mask on. every move is calculated and it never stops. slip-ups? nah, that's not an option. once you let up, it all falls apart. gotta keep grinding like you're still building from nothing.

appreciate the advice though, i'm definitely heading towards real estate, but yeah, i'll keep my own head in the game.

(Jul 17, 2025 12:09 PM)n8maniac Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) how much is your cost of living, and how much do you invest?

live simply so my cost of living is low compared to my income my daily expenses are minimal—just basics like food, transport, and some tech gear

i invest most of what i make — money that's not moving is losing value mostly in crypto: blue chips like btc and eth for stability, plus high-potential altcoins, defi projects, and layer 2 solutions

i keep just enough cash to stay liquid and focused, the rest works for me (Jul 18, 2025 03:47 AM)sYndroM Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Let's start at welcoming you here in HF. Hope you are happy here interacting with fellow members.

You said you are into crypto, so yah, would like to know.

appreciate the welcome

method's raw and simple — started as a hardcore crypto degen, hunting memecoins and flipping volatile pairs like XAUUSD with tight risk control grew the bag fast, no sugarcoating now i'm shifting to blue chips, solid defi, and layer 2 plays to lock in steady growth and protect capital all about mixing reckless moves with smart holds, patience, and discipline no magic, just grinding smarter than the rest

Buy your account a L33T first. A true millionaire typically lets their achievements and actions speak for themselves, as boasting often reveals insecurity or a need for approval.

Highly doubtful OP. If I'm wrong then good for you. I don't necessarily believe you because anyone can make an account and say that for whatever weird kink y'all have in common, but I'll believe it when I see it. Buy an upgrade and some awards, then people will take you more seriously.
