? Zemra RAT Source Code | Historical Remote Access Trojan | Free Download

? About Zemra:

Zemra is a well-known Remote Access Trojan (RAT) that surfaced around 2012 in underground markets and dark web forums. It was sold as a crimeware toolkit, allowing attackers full remote control over infected machines — now available here for educational and research purposes only.

This RAT is a snapshot of early 2010s malware design — compact, efficient, and devastatingly effective.

? Technical Features: Full remote control of infected system

Password stealing from Chrome, Firefox, IE

Built-in keylogger

Remote shell access

File downloader & executor

Webcam & mic spying (in advanced versions)

Reverse proxy and port forwarding support

? C2 Communication: Simple TCP communication with C2 server

Lightweight obfuscation for AV evasion

Dynamic DNS support to mask C2 IP

? Reverse Engineering Insights: Written in C++, packed using UPX

Win32 API calls: CreateProcess, WriteFile, InternetOpenUrl

No modular architecture but easy-to-follow code

Quickly flagged by AV vendors (Symantec, Kaspersky, TrendMicro)

? Distribution Methods: Malicious email attachments (phishing)

Exploit kits on infected websites

Bundled with pirated software

Lateral movement via SMB exploits

? What's Included:

? Full Zemra source code (clean and unpacked) + Panel

? Price: Only 100 ?ytes

? File Info:

Format: Rar archive

Language: C++ (Visual Studio 2010 project) - Panel = PHP

100 Bytes is not a free download, change the title please.

Adding this to my malware collection which I will soon release. Thanks but as the above post stated, the title is misleading and needs to change since it costs 100 bytes
