Thread: What's something small that instantly improves your day?

For me its, friendly faces, the sun waking me up and a good breakfast, with bread maybe cereal depending on what day it is, and a nice Raspberry-Vanilla Tea or whatever I have at home

It doesnt need to be something big, just little things giving you that boost you need to have a good day ?

Coffee, a walk, seeing animals (irl) do stupid funny shit, people. And music. A lot of it.

For me, it's just being positive to people and receiving that positivity back ??

I leave for work at 530 every morning. But now days, my youngest son is up just as early, for whatever reason lol. Fomo I guess.

It makes my day getting to chat with the guy as I get ready. I enjoy while I can since it won't last forever.

It's always the little things which matter.

Feeding my cats in the morning.

First cup of coffee.

Good music on the radio.

Stepping outside into the warm air and sun.

The short walk to the mailbox.

The rays of sun in between trees or clouds on an otherwise gloomy looking day

Synchronicities and those magical moments that don't seem like a coincidence, like a cosmic wink from the Universe. That ALWAYS improves my day. :)

My dogs. No matter how stressful things get, my guys are always there to put me in a better mood.
