Thread: Your Biggest Win or Loss in HF Blackjack?

Err0rX - July 27, 2025, 3:11 pm

What's the highest amount you've ever won or lost playing HF Blackjack?

Just curious to see how lucky (or unlucky) some of you have been. Drop your best or worst hands.

If you're wondering how to track your bytes gained or lost, you can check by going to your account and clicking the number next to "bytes."

HerrWinston - July 27, 2025, 3:26 pm

Well since you max can bet 1k per Hand on BJ thats my answer haha, played one night veryyyy much BJ and lost many bytes that night...

You can check your bytes history by going to your account and clicking the number next to 'bytes.' I'm sure you've lost at least 1000 by now.

Looks like you play Blackjack a lot.

I've been pretty successful blackjack. I certainly haven't had any major gains, but with basic strategy and the martingale, I usually don't lose money. I actually was doing pretty good and winning consistently at all the gambling games until I did an 8k coin flip and lost everything today.

Now I'm kicking myself for doing it.

I didn't expect blackjack strategies to work here. I thought the odds were random. Also, I don't know where to find coin flip. Can you tell me how to play it?

Well basic strategy will work regardless of if the deck is random, there is always a correct play in with the cards your dealt. For example, you would never hit on a 20 when the dealer is showing a 16. The chances of the dealer busting are at its highest when they are showing a 6. I'm sure card counting wouldn't work because it's like not a "shoe" it's just random cards every single time. The martingale strategy always works if you have a high enough bankroll and are willing to at some point risk 1k bytes to make 2. The table limits are what mess that up. But when you combine both of the two, you can win pretty consistently, you just not winning very many bytes at a time.

Haven't really won much on BlackJack. I think the most I've won is 1k Bytes. So bet 1k, and won back another 1k on top of it. My big wins came from Slots and Sportsbook! That's where the Bytes are at.

Can you explain blackjack strategies to me?

I've been losing a lot and want to start winning.

Also, I didn't expect the coin flip to be inside the chat; I thought it was in the games section like blackjack.

Blackjack isn't a big source of profit for Bytes, believe me. I tried playing sportsbook but they canceled the bet and I lost the amount with no compensation. As for slots, my losses are even bigger, unfortunately.

I would be easier for you to look up a basic strategy card and just follow it. They come in like little business card sizes, you allowed to bring them into casinos IRL too. A lot of people use them; it's one of the basics of blackjack to give you the best chances of beating the dealer.

That's the tricky part, as soon as you start winning and frequently changing your bet size (which you have to do when counting) the dealers will catch on quick. Most dealers have been dealing so long, that it's easy for them to spot a counter.

Looks like you're good at blackjack, I certainly am not.

I never actually gambled before. Then I start spending time at the local casinos, like, half an hour, having a coffee, then spending some time with couple of bucks. After a while, I felt like loosing to much time and money while I was hanging there. It's been 4 months already since my last visit there. Even for fun, I will never do it again!

Seems like ya learned your lesson! Just a little fun can take more time and money then it's worth. Probably best to sit out for now

I have lost a good few hands of 2k bets with a cheeky double downs. I feel like its a little rigged but lets not go into this.

If you know how to play Blackjack professionally, how many Bytes could you realistically earn? That would be a nice change.

Lost 5k in ten minutes.

I kept saying "cannot lose again". But I did.

We're the same, but I've gotten better.

If I bet all my bytes right now, that would become my new biggest loss.

Why do you mean blackjack or the sportsbook?

Lost a few thousand on Blackjack. Learned my lesson but will occasionally play a small sample size of hands.

The more you play = more you lose

We are the same, playing more to make up for the loss just makes us lose even more in the end.

Not a big gambler. 500$ single hand after 4 drinks was my biggest and only hit.

Did you end up winning?
