Thread: How Often Do you visit the Forums?

Radi - July 31, 2025, 9:53 am

I was wondering How often do you guys check on the forums and what brings you back everyday ?

So since I came back to HF I've noticed before I took a break I would visit the forums or recheck certain sections every 2 hours but sometimes I can go days without checking. For me I guess it depended on how many active users participated in the active topic and if I had knowledge in it as well as learning new things.

Currently i am here every 20 min maximum, sometimes i check every 10 min because i dont have much to do rn xD

Artisan - July 31, 2025, 10:00 am

Multiple times throughout the day and every day.

Deany - July 31, 2025, 10:01 am

Every day ofc . I gamble every day on sportsbook

Sheesh you are on a roll man as long as there are conversations to be made you can literally have hundreds in one day but it's a little bit harder nowadays since activity is increasing but we just need that new something to bring in more people to increase activity by double and you'll have 200 a day ?

I'm on here every single day, multiple times a day. The community is second to none in all honesty. I've been here a long time.

Multiple times a day - You want reasons?

First, I work in cyber security, sometimes some interesting topics are to be found here.

Secondly, I enjoy to chill around here on the community.

Third, I run the H4CK3R$ group, need to be monitoring it all.

Fourth, do I need a fourth reason? Okay - I originally found HF in 2008, so there is a lot of nostalgia to it.

I've seen that people visit multiple times a day. That is cool that you work in cyber security and having that type of insight honestly you open see ways of preventing things from happening in the ever growing environment. The community is pretty chill that is facts. I've seen people with that userbar but I had no clue what they do honestly I thought it was just to look cool and say they hack and you running it I mean I fully understand that you need make sure things are inline inside your usergroup threads that no funny business occurs but I have no clue what happens in these groups behind closed doors. Fourth one LOL

Capps - July 31, 2025, 7:48 pm

Now that my iPhone 7 has a new battery, I am able to use it more often, so whenever I have Wi-Fi out in the country, or I am in town and not doing much else I do believe I will get on here and reply to the forum more often.

That is completely fair honestly I think that majority of the people that are currently active on the forums try to at least be on for 30 to an hour depending on what they find posted that day.

K4RM4 - August 1, 2025, 6:22 pm

Once an hour or so.

Secrets - August 1, 2025, 7:21 pm

Visit everyday lately, pop my head in read threads; rarely post.

I try these days to do it daily, i say these days because at first when i made my account i was really scared of the forum HAHAHHA, at first i made my account and i quickly logged out, then i used to read some threads and i started to find this place really cool and nice, so little by little i started to gain confidence.???

Its funny because i like technology in general, but also im always like fighting against a stupid trauma that i got when i was like 10 and i got my phone infected with malware because i tried to install a game for free. ??? By the way im not an ultra noob if anyone is wondering hahahaha, i know how to use linux (something like that) and even i used to use arch so im maybe ignorant and a ultra paranoic schyzo.

The End.

Yeah I think that's what a large portion of people are doing checking in daily and little snoop around and dip. Times were different a few years back where forums were the main place to talk to people share ideas etc. Now there are so many ways such as discord, telegram etc which had killed a lot of other websites activity.

I have always loved forums, and I believe they are making a comeback. They feel more personable than other chat platforms.

No, you're not gonna stop. I wanna see more of that AI stuff you come up with. Girls in a pool, for example... with the right amount of fingers. ?

Oh! ? Now I know I have fans on here? Thanks bro!

I will post some more of those type of things when I get back into that mode. I spent all last Weekend making these threads using AI:

I think it's a natural cycle of things. New gen aren't that interested in the concept of forums and to be honest they are outdated. Things like Discord, Reddit, Insta and Snapchats are more "cool" if you wanna call that.

Certainly Discord in my view stands out as a community platform which has replaced the community of forums.

This however long HF lasts. I try to enjoy my time here. That's the least we can do at all times with our lives.

I visit the forum multiple times a day.. I don't think there is a specific number of times that I stop by, I come back basically whenever I get an email notification that a new message has arrived in my Private Messages Inbox.

And then I will also stop by at least once in the day to knock out a full battery of Hack Game. And I just rinse and repeat this cycle daily.. have made it part of my routine.

Any tips for the Hack Game ? The last couple of weeks I always try to hit the 2% job and the XP I gain are all from the missions, but it doesnt seem to work xD
