What games do you remember enjoying a lot, but found disappointment when you returned to it?

For me it was pixel gun 3D.

I remember playing teenage mutant ninja turtles a lot. It was the most fun I ever had?

Nothing really comes to mind for me with this. Don't get me wrong, I have plenty of games that I had great memories with and also that I went back to and played. I don't think any of them upon returning to left me overwhelmed with disappoint though. A big part of the enjoyment was surely nostalgia and I also likely went into them being realistic as to what I should expect given how outdated they may have been.
