? So You Want to Be a Minecraft Hacker? ?

Everyone who's played Minecraft knows about hackers. But do you know how easy it is to become one yourself? If not, you're in for a treat! ? All you have to do is use a modded client and activate the hacks in-game.

The first problem I encountered was...

How do you find a SAFE modded client (not malware or a virus)? And what servers can you use hacks on without being kicked or banned?

Here's what I've learned about Minecraft hacking:

? There are only 2 real FREE, SAFE modded clients that actually work and get updates.

? One is for Minecraft Java, the other for Minecraft Bedrock.

My Recommendations:

? Meteor Client (JAVA)

<https://meteorclient.com/>

? Horion Client (BEDROCK)

<https://horion.download/>

All info to get started is on their official sites.

If you need help setting up, just reply to this thread (please don't PM/convo me for tech support — post here if you have a question and I'll reply when I have time).

Now You're a Minecraft Hacker... What's Next? ?

? How do you hack without getting kicked?

? How do you avoid risking your main Minecraft account?

Pro Tip: Not getting kicked is the toughest part! One of the coolest parts of Minecraft hacking is playing on anarchy servers — no rules, no bans, just chaos!

AI Quote: Anarchy servers in Minecraft are servers with little to no rules, allowing players to grief, cheat, and engage in PvP without restrictions. These servers offer a chaotic and challenging environment, appealing to players who enjoy a "survival of the fittest" type of gameplay.

This video below explains Minecraft Anarchy Servers in great detail:

[Video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6k4ikcsNQoo>]

? My Thoughts on Hacking Minecraft BEDROCK Edition with Horion Client ?

Any Minecraft veteran would say: "Who plays BEDROCK? It sucks!" ?

But honestly—if you just want to cause some chaos for a day on the paid-to-play version of Minecraft (Bedrock Edition)—try out Horion Client!

? Horion has nearly all the same features as Meteor Client (for Java)

? You'll outclass most players—since so many are on consoles, tablets, & phones

? It's really fun for a while—but it does get old fast!

The best part? When you play Bedrock, you're up against a global mix of casual players on every device. This makes hacking super entertaining at first!

Best Server for Horion?

I had the most fun on the Lifeboat Survival server ?

They will kick you for cheats...

But I was never perm banned, and you can usually just reconnect if your hacks are detected!

Just set a spawn, go wild, and see what kind of mischief you can get up to! ?

How Not to Get Banned (or Lose Your Minecraft Account)

If you want to avoid permanent bans or losing access to your account, stick to Anarchy servers or use ALT accounts (for both Java and Bedrock):

AI Quote:

Minecraft alts, short for alternative accounts, are additional accounts players use to access Minecraft. These accounts function like primary accounts but can be used for various purposes, such as exploring new gameplay strategies, testing features, or safeguarding your main account.

For a full guide on Minecraft Alts (

Final Thoughts

If you have advanced coding skills, you could always create your own mods—but honestly, all the popular hacks are already preloaded in Meteor and Horion clients. ?

? Go have fun hacking in Minecraft (responsibly)! ?

I think it might also make sense to dig into the actual context behind these "hacks".

Some of what you mentions is just x-raying. It's basically reading game data shared by the server, that wasn't meant to be read.

This is common practice is many games.

The flaw lies in clients that needs to perform, the client don't want to depend on the server for blocks every time a new block is revealed.

This is both to ensure the client runs smoothly, but also to lower the resources needed for server.

This means blocks are often shared way ahead of the block being revealed, often by the server sharing all blocks within a certain range from the current position.

Some servers lowers this, in order to make it harder for hackers - but the balance is between hacker protection and client/server performance and cost.

Some servers even shares the seed to make the server resources even lower. Which allows a whole new level of x-raying.

Thanks for the info!

x-ray is cool and all, but nothing beats the first fun feeling of being able to do this on Bedrock Edition:

Hi guys, I will be making another Minecraft guide soon covering Litematica and Litematica Printer.

Stay Tuned!

? What is Litematica?

Litematica is a Minecraft client-side mod (Fabric/Forge) that lets players create, display, and use schematics inside the game.

A schematic is basically a saved blueprint of a structure (like a castle, farm, redstone machine, or house).

With Litematica, you can:

Load a schematic into your world as a hologram/ghost structure that only you can see.

Build alongside the hologram piece by piece (like a guide).

Save your own builds as schematics for later use or sharing.

? Think of it like a blueprint projector inside Minecraft.

? What is Litematica Printer?

The Litematica Printer is an addon or feature (depending on the version) that works with Litematica.

Normally, with Litematica, you still have to place blocks manually where the hologram tells you.

The Printer mode can automatically place blocks for you from your inventory, as long as you're holding the right blocks and have permission in the world (usually singleplayer or on servers that allow it).

? Important Note:

Many multiplayer servers ban or restrict printer usage because it's considered a form of automation/cheating.

Using just Litematica (as a guide) is usually allowed since you're still building by hand.

? Summary:

Litematica = Blueprint mod for building guides.

Litematica Printer = Automation tool that places the blocks for you, like a "build bot."

I somehow had a base last 1 month+ @ 140,000 blocks out directly on a obby main highway in overworld, cords x 140,000 z 0

It was so cool, all these random people started coming and building too! I taught them about litemtica and had some buddies... It was honestly the best time I ever had on minecraft.

Fun thing to do with litemtica is go into single player peaceful and copy the villager houses design and make your own schematics, you can breed villagers and have cool fast houses this way. Our base was getting pretty huge..

I take long breaks from minecraft! I get addicted to it and start building complex redstone machines and mob farms. I have to stop because I will stay up for days straight playing/building and I do it on servers for more fun and addiction. I have HUGE DUPE STASHES on 6b6bt, got them all logged on notepad hidden very well on the server. 6b6t is my fav server. HMU if you need some free kits :)

They once had this illegal event on 6b6t that unlocked all patched dupes and illegal kits, I still have 64 stacked fully enchanted illegal diamond armor on my guy and 64 stacked totems + 32k swords and sharp bread etc, nude porn map art, (soem sick shit once, femboy asshole gaping bent overmap art, i throw 64 stacks of them into lava... lol, kill some guy, wtf he have that on him? lmao) all sorts of crazy shit! ????

AI Quote: A "64 stacks amour" kit refers to an "illegal" PvP kit in Minecraft that includes items like armor and golden apples stacked beyond the normal limit of 64. This allows a player to carry an overwhelming number of highly powerful items, giving them a significant—and often unfair—advantage over others.

The armor itself is often "illegal" because it contains enchantments that are not normally allowed in the game, such as having all four types of Protection (regular, Blast, Fire, and Projectile) on a single piece.

How illegal kits are created

Illegal kits are not a standard feature of Minecraft. They are generally created using exploits, hacks, or special commands on servers that allow it. The two main components are:

Overstacked items: A normal stack in Minecraft is limited to 64. Using glitches, command editors, or exploits on some servers allows players to create item stacks far beyond this limit.

Illegal enchantments: With commands or by exploiting old game versions, it's possible to create armor pieces with overpowered or impossible combinations of enchantments. For example, some kits from PvP servers like MCStacker can be used to generate items with enchantments at level 255.

Examples of illegal armor kits

"God Armor": This term typically describes armor enchanted with multiple types of Protection and other maximum-level enchantments, which is not normally possible in survival mode. These pieces make a player nearly invincible to damage.

32k items: A reference to extremely high-level enchantments, usually used on weapons, that deal an impossible amount of damage.

Stackable Totems of Undying: Under normal circumstances, Totems of Undying do not stack. In an illegal kit, they can be stacked up to 64, allowing a player to survive for an extended period in combat.

Why they are banned on most servers

On most multiplayer servers, these kits are considered illegal and cheating. Server administrators typically have rules against using exploits to gain an unfair advantage in PvP. Using illegal kits can result in a ban because they disrupt fair gameplay and ruin the experience for other players.

I was using the minecart, cactus, and goat dupe on 6b6t, they are all patched. Each server has their own dupes. You have to get known and meet higher up people to learn the dupes per server. It takes a lot of networking. I nvr played donutSMP, search youtube...

Not something I'm personally interested in, but thanks for sharing! Looks to be a solid spread of info and you seem to be plenty open to helping others as well which is even better. Minecraft is one of the goat games I'd say and I had a lot of fun with it, mainly in it's early days, but I don't think I'd ever return to it. Never say never though. It's definitely one of those games that you could randomly get an itch to play at any time, especially if you had some friends to do so with.
