Thread: what brought you to hackforums?

Curs3d - August 9, 2025, 4:12 pm

Hello i am just curious as to what brought everyone here? It seems like many members are not really into "hacking" so what is the reason that made you sign up here?

Deany - August 9, 2025, 4:21 pm

A friend told me about it. If not for that, wouldn't even know it existed

Panagiota - August 9, 2025, 4:34 pm

I was a teen and I wanted to learn how to code :p

Mech - August 9, 2025, 9:20 pm

Buying and selling OG xbox gamertags.

Cap - August 9, 2025, 10:33 pm

In the Halo 2 days I was interested in booting people offline - so I got into botnets and stumbled upon HF.

Booting and circle boosting to get to 50.

Good times.

Yeah I did it all: booting, circle boosting, modding, bridging. Nothing like it these days. Can't say I've cared for a game as much as Halo 2.

I just googled hackforums a long long time ago (over 10 years) and I new it existed, but never really explored it before. (its never too late though)

Came to check out a thread that showed up in the Google Search Results. Only way to see the actual thread, was to join the site.. and the rest was history. When I initially joined, I believe I just read the thread.. and that was it. Didn't have any intention on hanging out. And I still didn't make the decision to become an upgraded member until months later.

Mobile hacking. I wanted a hack for a game. This was like over a decade ago.

Yep, same. Loved Halo 2 and Halo 3.
Loved all the cheating that came along with them too.
I really miss that era of time.

This is funny, because I believe that is what started my interest as well. Using Cain and able to pull ips and boot to rank up. Good time!

The wide range of sellers and different services provided here, of course not everything is to my taste but you can always find that one little hidden gem

Did you find it through Google? I'm asking because I have a feeling that HF is heavily shadow banned, I had to search for it specifically on Google to find it
