Thread: My bank locked me out due to it being "Jailbroken"

xclouded1 - August 10, 2025, 10:32 am

So I updated my iPhone last night, and now it says my device is jailbroken, funny, I didn't think new iPhone updates had any jailbreaks at all, seriously the danger and limitations banks can impose on you is quite frankly, disgusting.

I've never even googled jailbreaking or anything, and they block my banking app? tf?

Has this happened to anyone here?

You're not actually locked out of your bank. It's probably a bug. Use the web portal until the developer patches it.

Yeah, I feel ya. Banks go to extreme lengths to defend against malware.

Cheers, just updated my app to the Beta 5 and now my bank is working, regardless though, still scary what they can do

Glad this was sorted! Getting locked out of your bank can be scary

Sounds like more of a safety protocol, then a restriction they're purposely imposing on you. Glad to see you were able to get everything straightened out.

While some of these features can be annoying, it is a bank.. at least you know they're putting their best foot forward, in an attempt to protect your assets.

This was the message I got from my bank

Probably the banking app detected something suspicious. Might be a wrong flag from it.

You'll have to try to talk to Bank or maybe check if anything's off with your phone.

All fixed mate, just needed to update to the Beta 5 (which is strange since it's the newest Apple update)

I'll be honest, been so long since I knew my ID, since the banking apps here are just stupidly annoying

In a couple of years you'll have to open the app, add a 4digit pass, go to your email, add the email code, then go to your authenticator, add the 6-digits xD

This followed by Iris ID, as well as fingerprint and showing your birth certificate with the camera ?

Glad that it's fixed. But yes it's strange that it required beta update.

I'm on the developer platform, and I updated it to Beta 4 and it stopped working, but Beta 5 fixed it? Quite strange yeah plops - August 11, 2025, 4:25 pm

It is shitty that they can have that control.

But I do get it.

I tried buying McDonalds with my Wells Fargo card yesterday. But it blocked me. I called the bank. They said RFK claimed I was a fat ass and to block my banks from fast food. I paid the Indian guy off with some apple cards and got unblocked. Such bs bro.

disable "developer mode" or "insert developer option thing related here" most banking apps don't like that option enabled.

i think its in settings -> privacy and security etc. idk just find it lol.

K4RM4 - August 11, 2025, 6:25 pm

I'm glad you got it fixed!

Yeah sometimes I wonder how people can make money online when it's so often so time consuming to prove you're not a bot.

That's true. Half the effort goes into proving you're human. Security layers are necessary, sure, but still a bit ridiculous sometimes.
