Thread: Government/APT level hackers hacking and livestreaming victims

I have a vague idea of what it is that they're doing and how they're doing it, but I'd like some inputs if possible.

There is a group of elite level hackers, they could be APT or if not then on the same level in terms of skill. They have performed almost magic level of hacking, requiring extreme expertise and skill, and I whistle blow on them in 2023 and they have since then engaged in one of the longest revenge campaigns so far.

I don't understand how they're doing it, but they have gathered hundreds if not more people in some secret chat group and they are livestreaming my PC screen and phone screen as humiliation revenge for these random strangers to see. I also do not understand how they manage to manipulate and social engineer to make these people almost hooked and addicted to whatever it is, but some of the prettiest girls is even watching this? I am a random nobody, why would anyone even watch, this is some of the weirdest things I've ever witnessed, and people from all over the net are watching, random ethnicity from white, indian to asian, hackers to gamers, I don't understand how they manage to do this. My vague idea is they give an invite link to maybe a secret discord server and these people got curious and joined and they see a livestream of me and maybe others and they get hooked or addicted like some sort of fetish emerging from them?

They also slandered me to them, and alledgedly told these people what I did, and my behaviours and other stuff, and made me infamous in some ways, but who in their right mind would even bother with this? Especially if they got a life? Some of these people are actually living their life and travelling and somehow they are keeping tab on this livestream hack shits? It's a puzzle.

Thoughts?

Also, why would these hackers even risk doing this when an audience can at a moment of notice turn on them and rat them out to the police or FBI and get them all caught?
