

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: WHy is the US dollar so valuable right now?

The Pact - August 23, 2025, 1:43 am

That's the post. Why is it worth so much all of a sudden? I mean it's worth a lot more than normal.

HerrWinston - August 23, 2025, 4:15 am

Hmm, it hasn't changed that much or has it? If I remember right it just decreased lately ;(

Rahul007rhp - August 23, 2025, 4:28 am

Not sure, if it's been increased lately. I believe it will be in a bit of pullback stage maybe due to the current on-goings & decision made by them

DramaKing - August 23, 2025, 4:49 am

Well, inflation is low, but I wouldn't call it sudden.

Northern Lights - August 23, 2025, 5:38 am

The dollar is valuable because it sits in 62% of the world's reserves. USD actually been losing value.

https://www.exchangerate.com/CurrencyRatesLineGraph?last30=365;cid=266-EUR;currency=239;date_from=08-23-2024;date_to=08-23-2025

Look into the Dollar Index.

<https://www.tradingview.com/symbols/TVC-DXY/>

"The value of the U.S. dollar against other currencies dropped about 11% in the first half of this year, the biggest decline in more than 50 years, ending a 15-year bull cycle."

<https://www.morganstanley.com/insights/articles/us-dollar-declines>

Learninghacks - August 25, 2025, 10:54 am

World currencies are pegged with dollar but Dollar dropping insanely bro

Rsynced - August 25, 2025, 12:17 pm

The cost of everything in the US is being purposely overpriced, so the dollar is worth more I guess?

I think it's called SHOCK market or something in Economics.

Phantom_NiNja - August 26, 2025, 11:46 pm

(Aug 23, 2025 01:43 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's the post. Why is it worth so much all of a sudden? I mean it's worth a lot more than normal.

That depends on what you're talkin about.

Currently it gained 17 points up. However, it lost value in the first quarter of 2025 and in July it gained back 3% value.

What you might mean is if you're in another country if the exchange rates of your countries currently gets you less US dollar for your one currency then it means your counties currency is losing value globally.

Euro is stronger for 1 Euro you get $1.16 USD. just 16 cents difference.

Right now trade issues are being rearranged globally. It's going to cause Fluctuations in currencies. There will be drops and recoveries.

The Pact - December 21, 2025, 5:17 am

(Aug 26, 2025 11:46 PM)Phantom_NiNja Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That depends on what you're talkin about.

Currently it gained 17 points up. However, it lost value in he first quarter of 2025 and in July it gained back 3% value.

What you might mean is if you're in another country if the exchange rates of your countries currently gets you less US dollar for your one currency then it means your counties currency is losing value globally.

Euro is stronger for 1 Euro you get $1.16 USD. just 16 cents difference.

Right now trade issues are being rearranged globally. It's going to cause Fluctuations in currencies. There will be drops and recoveries.
Well, I get higher royalties now.

Traders are treating the USD as a sell-the-rally asset because the Federal Reserve has already begun cutting rates, reducing the yield advantage that supported the dollar for years.