

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: The Complete Guide to Migrating Chrome Extensions from Manifest V2 to Manifest V3

Stanley - September 1, 2025, 8:20 pm

The Complete Guide to Migrating Chrome Extensions from Manifest V2 to Manifest V3

Chrome's extension platform has undergone a significant transformation with the introduction of Manifest V3 (MV3) This evolution from Manifest V2 marks one of the most substantial changes to the extension architecture since its inception. The transition to MV3 comes as part of Google's broader effort to enhance the security model of extensions.

<https://hackernoon.com/the-complete-guide-to-migrating-chrome-extensions-from-manifest-v2-to-manifest-v3?source=rss>

JoseMar - September 2, 2025, 11:54 pm

(Sep 1, 2025 08:20 PM)Stanley Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The Complete Guide to Migrating Chrome Extensions from Manifest V2 to Manifest V3

Chrome's extension platform has undergone a significant transformation with the introduction of Manifest V3 (MV3) This evolution from Manifest V2 marks one of the most substantial changes to the extension architecture since its inception. The transition to MV3 comes as part of Google's broader effort to enhance the security model of extensions.

<https://hackernoon.com/the-complete-guide-to-migrating-chrome-extensions-from-manifest-v2-to-manifest-v3?source=rss>

The great Manifest V3 migration... it's been a headache for so many developers. I get the security argument, I really do, but some of the changes just feel so restrictive.

sharn - September 14, 2025, 10:38 am

Migrating to Manifest V3 is necessary for future Chrome updates.
Non-compliant extensions may break.