

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Work from home or work from office

Squixey - September 4, 2025, 5:12 am

which one do you prefer work from or work from office

Me prefer working from home! Wbu

Lefty - September 4, 2025, 5:52 am

I think working from home is the dream right? nothing can beat that to my knowledge haha

Charlie Sheen - September 4, 2025, 6:37 am

I've done both and I'm a lot more productive in the office. When I worked from home it was way to easy to turn on the TV or walk away and go make something to eat. It takes a lot of discipline.

Also if I'm running into an issue it's nice when someone can walk over to my desk and help me out. Sucked getting on the phone and trying to share screens.

Jamika - September 4, 2025, 7:45 am

From office, usually house is very noisy aj33b9009 - September 4, 2025, 9:52 am i prefer working from home more relaxing

MadScientist - September 4, 2025, 9:53 am

Working from home is my dream

Squixey - September 4, 2025, 2:47 pm

Many seem to love working from home, but as Charlie said, it takes a lot of decipline to work from home and become productive.

54R0x - September 4, 2025, 3:00 pm

some kind of hybrid setup works for me best, its the best of both worlds.

N - September 4, 2025, 5:18 pm

They both have pros and cons, a bit of both balances it out.

Deany - September 4, 2025, 5:22 pm

Reselling from home is the dream

SIM-5690428 - September 4, 2025, 8:26 pm

I always wanted to work from home, I never got to.

DirtyIndian - September 4, 2025, 11:57 pm

(Sep 4, 2025 05:12 AM)Squixey Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) which one do you prefer work from or work from office

Me prefer working from home! Wbu

Working from home sounds totally awesome but I don't have the luxury of making enough money from my little side gigs

BTW I dont work in an office I work in a factory

HALx86 - September 5, 2025, 12:05 am

I'd love to work from an office but have a chance to work from home for long weekends.

toast e - September 5, 2025, 12:18 pm

Working from home is the better option. However i get distracted by shit all the time lmao.

Lowkey - September 5, 2025, 12:21 pm

Who wouldn't want to work from home?

Rionxee - September 6, 2025, 12:04 am

WFH is great, it gives you flexibility & the means to act somewhat autonomously. I think that anyone capable enough should be able to work from home in certain roles. Unfortunately, I truly think that many people do not have the discipline to work from home/remotely.

Some of the initial WFH mentality negatively impacted the young recently graduated workforce during COVID - lack of personal connection to co-workers really has impacted the work life mentality of many Gen Z individuals. A lot of folks truly do not know how to communicate or act in a business environment & I have seen this lack of corporate work ethic and experience negatively impact engagements as older stakeholders are turned off by younger colleagues work ethic.

Before my complete deluge into academia I worked a consulting role that was completely remote, I felt isolated and at a disadvantage. I decided to go into the regional office regularly and found myself flourishing after a short period of time.

Recent graduates and young professionals should probably try to go into an office - the networking skills and interaction with team members is extremely important to growing a well rounded professional toolkit.

kinnu543 - September 6, 2025, 12:45 am

I like working from office rather than working from home

Rumler Alva - September 6, 2025, 8:28 am

Working from home

Clamydia Jackson - September 6, 2025, 5:49 pm

I would love working from home so I could take a nap once in a while. lol

Moookie - September 6, 2025, 6:52 pm

I work from home, and have been for a few years now. I have a small experience working a regular job, when I was younger and still going to school.. and while I didn't necessarily hate the experience, I prefer working for myself from home more. More freedom. More control over my work hours. More control over how much I earn. Just an overall better experience.

But to be fair, if I didn't have the privilege of working from home.. I would be working a 9 to 5 from someones office. I'm all about going out and getting it for myself, and never depending on others to feed myself.

Squixey - September 7, 2025, 3:16 am

(Sep 6, 2025 06:52 PM)Mooooookie Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I work from home, and have been for a few years now. I have a small experience working a regular job, when I was younger and still going to school.. and while I didn't necessarily hate the experience, I prefer working for myself from home more. More freedom. More control over my work hours. More control over how much I earn. Just an overall better experience.

But to be fair, if I didn't have the privilege of working from home.. I would be working a 9 to 5 from someones office. I'm all about going out and getting it for myself, and never depending on others to feed myself.

Well you are different! Looking at your account and the amount you had spent and the work you do like IG recovery, I have two friends one working/running a call center and he makes 1-2 M a month and another who does IG ban and recovery where he makes 100-150G/mo

PROFESSOR - September 7, 2025, 3:50 am

Working from office helps me stay more focused with fewer distractions.

I can separate professional and personal life more effectively.

PhazerBlade - September 7, 2025, 4:03 am

Working from the office always makes me more disciplined ? when I work from home on my own time I tend to get off task and end up over working way later...

Squixey - September 7, 2025, 4:53 am

(Sep 7, 2025 04:03 AM)PhazerBlade Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Working from the office always makes me more disciplined ? when I work from home on my own time I tend to get off task and end up over working way later...

That's one things I faced when I was working back then, end up overworking because of being a slack doing stupid things in between work when at home piling up my work tasks.

Oh_Well - September 7, 2025, 7:17 am

Depends on the job I guess.

Working from home is always better in terms of flexibility etc, but it might get a bit tricky sometimes when you need to focus. It's so easy to get distracted at home.

incogpryody - September 8, 2025, 8:28 am

Working from home, ofcourse