<https://www.smh.com.au/world/north-america/conservative-political-activist-charlie-kirk-shot-at-utah-university-20250911-p5mu3s.html>

Such a devastating day for MAGA supporters like me.

padrino - September 10, 2025, 2:55 pm

I didn't like Kirk at all. But there is never an excuse for violence like this - I'm a liberal and the thing I hate the most about my own side is the complete lack of willingness to engage and have a sensible debate like adults, especially at a university of all places. The fact that someone chose to kill him like this really makes me sad.

My thought are with his wife and young family regardless of my opinion of the man.

Prepper - September 10, 2025, 3:00 pm

You know what else is devastating, that a father, a husband, a son, is dead from not only political violence but gun violence at a university making this another school shooting, and not a fucking thing will be done about it.

MAGA will do as they usually do "thoughts and prayers" while political violence will continue against both sides, school shootings will continue, and once again someone will lose a parent, husband/wife and children and back to "thoughts and prayers" we go just to repeat the same fucking cycle over and over again.

This shit needs to stop, political violence needs to stop and people need to be able to live safely knowing they will make it home or their children will make it home.

Your side has the mentality that it can't win arguments so it just goes "oh well, let make this problem disappear".

Disgrace.

Charlie Kirk openly called for the removal of Constitutional protections, and he also advocated for the illegal invasion of US cities for political disagreements.

A piece of shit is dead, and the country is now objectively safer without his propagandist bullshit online.

A win for democracy.

this was a man who felt it was acceptable to send troops into cities (literally illegal without an invite from a state Governor).

He advocated for military enforcement of politics.

He advocated for the use of guns, for disagreements - even if illegal.

The irony should not be lost on us.

He died because a man used a gun on him, for a political disagreement - something he fully supported throughout his life and tenure as a Turning Point leader.

He also advocated that we should not target firearms because of isolated incidents.

His death is not an indication of violence in this country, nor is it concerning.

People are shot every single day.

Charlie would not want us to overreact to this near irrelevant scenario.

Anyways, just another day for the rest of us.

The same way many other people are killed?

People spotted the person on the roof, but how were they to know what was going to happen, and even during that process if they were to alert authorities it would have been way too late anyway, hell some of them may have thought it was part of security, it is not uncommon for security detail to be on roofs.

Throwing every gun you can find on a trash heap only leads to tyranny and fewer mass shootings. It doesn't change people, reduce violence or make society better, but it does keep law-abiding people from defending themselves.

Here I'm going to quote the often-repeated statistic that the cities with the highest murder rates have the strictest gun laws. You can argue with me about causality or that a nationwide ban would mean that only the police and cartels could get guns. All the guns on the street would be gone. It is, however, strongly correlated.

Oh, I forgot to add that seizing all guns would require repealing not just the 2nd Amendment but the 5th Amendment as well.

Completely legal for POTUS to federalize the National Guard, even if it's an extreme step and doesn't solve a long-term problem. It's concerning because it's already clear that people are being radicalized to make their point with murder when they are unable to win a civil debate.

1. Abortion for non-medical reasons is bad. (Takes all the rights away from the father, allows people to act without consequences)

2. Illegal immigration is bad, it destabilizes countries (look at the UK, Canada or any other european country)

3. Transgenderism is bad, its unnatural and clearly rooted in mental illness

4. "He advocated for the use of guns, for disagreements - even if illegal." this is false, he advocated for engaged conversations between opposing sides.

5. "A piece of shit is dead, and the country is now objectively safer without his propagandist bullshit online." You know the internet and country would be safer without free crypters on the internet, allowing poor innocent seniors be targeted by idiots like yourself.

1. No

Quote:In one exchange that has again gone viral, Kirk was asked how he would respond if his own daughter, at the age of 10, were raped and became pregnant. His response underscored his rigid opposition to abortion in any circumstance.

"That's awfully graphic," Kirk said. "But the answer is yes, the baby would be delivered."

If a 10 year old rape victim can't have a medical abortion... Abort your babies if you believe that, so they aren't influenced by the swine you are. Kirk believed in some of the worst, so fuck that guy.

Little bitch boys always have opinions like this.

Did I say fuck Charlie Kirk today? Suck it crybabies.

2. Blah blah blah.

We get it, you disagree with me.

I think a lot of what you said makes you a POS, but hey, that's just my opinion I guess.

I don't support killing people for politics.

I also don't think we should give a fuck about this topic.

Also for the record, I have never once used a crypter, like at all.

That might be hard to believe, but I did all of that to teach myself C/C++ and some ASM - not to sell or distribute crypters.

You know how much money I made selling crypters? $0.

Know how much I made using crypters? $0.

Know how many times I used a crypter with an actual prog? 0 times.

I'm whitehat, I'm legal, and I just like creating.

I've literally never even used one, that's the funny thing.

I did that & then investigated some sketchy peeps, that's about it.

anyways, back on topic...

Tyler Robinson, the 22-year-old suspect registered as an independent but then had never voted in any election.

Tyler Robinson's grandma said every last person in the shooter's family was MAGA that there was not one single family member that wasn't pro Trump but her grandson did not vote and never spoke about politics to her , the shooter engraved on the bullet "If you read this you are gay."

He never talked to his grandma about politics.

However he had recently made chilling remarks about Kirk during a family dinner with other family members in the lead-up to his murder, according to investigators.

A 22 year old wanted to rebel against his MAGA family and people are using it for politics and wanting to make it into something it wasn't for political gain. A lot of gross behaviour from politicians right now.

It should be devastating to everyone because everyone has a carotid artery, and Charlie Kirk did not deserve to go out like that, but for whatever reason God allowed this to happen. Whenever something tragic happens, I always think of these Bible verses.

Isaiah 55:8-9

New Revised Standard Version Updated Edition

8 For my thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways my ways, says the Lord.

9 For as the heavens are higher than the earth,
so are my ways higher than your ways and my thoughts than your thoughts.

Oh, and if it had happened to someone else, Charlie would have been vocal about political violence

I don't support bans, I support background checks. I personally led a team that built one of the world's biggest gun & weapons manufacturer's digital websites & apps & backends. This is the danger of making assumptions.

I want the USA to spend more on scientific research and military power, energy systems, and move forward with multi-planet / galactic control measures to ensure the safety of Earth is not jeopardized, and I want the people / citizens to have more access to weapons to ensure their safety as well.

Half of the people that hate me or think I'm a diehard lib probably have less Republican views than I do for certain topics. I fully support 2A & firearm ownership and think people should own more. I also support background checks and banning for mental illness in some cases.

My views are nuanced and based on a lot of thought, not just headlines or bullshit and I shouldn't be categorized as lib or not lib because that's not how I see my own views which pull from both sides of the political spectrum.

At the same time, Trumpism and MAGA is not politics - to me. I don't think it's politics, I think it's a cult or deranged group that shares political views, and that's the difference. They are more of a fuckbuddy group of online trolls and misguided people than they are a valid political party. Much of Trump/MAGA requires less education, less informed people, and generally lower intelligence and wealth opportunities. This is generally true in almost all cases due to the number of lies you have to believe to even remotely support MAGA/Trump and I will stand on that & tell that to family (I have), friends (I have), and people on HF (I have).

None of my hatred of Kirk or MAGA is political - it's because they are politically deficient and incorrect on a majority of subjects. There is a difference.

There has been plenty on the left cheering it on all over social media as well as teachers in schools, that is why there is dozens of people fired from their jobs because of it and rightfully so as no business should be obligated to keep people with terrible values who celebrate terrible acts of violence as employees.

Additionally he never advocated for gun violence, he advocated for the 2nd amendment and acknowledged that is unfortunate but some gun deaths will happen, people seem to love to take what he says out of context.

Here is the reality you are denying.

I do understand many types of pain, you are over-complicating concepts that average humans can experience. I can't claim to know 100% of everything you think & feel. I could empathize with you.

If you think you're so special that nobody can empathize with you or know your pain, you're full of yourself.

Your pain is likely quite simple and probably similar to the experience of hundreds, thousands, or many others.

Also, empathy requires the person being empathized with to share, so of course if you don't tell us how you feel, or what you think, or anything about your pain, we can't empathize with you.

Perhaps we have sympathy for you. We feel sympathetic. So sorry, life must be so painful and so hard. So sad. I sympathize with you.

Also yeah I am also done here. I honestly don't want to give Charlie Kirk any more life. Lets keep these types of discussions completely offline.

He indoctrinated children into a world of hate for others. We shouldn't propagate his ideas. We should let his ideas die out because a lot of his ideas were quite stupid, misguided, and dangerous for our children.

This is absolutely wrong and a very bizarre misunderstanding that a large number of people seem to have about the meaning of the word empathy.

The word empathy means you do your best with the experiences you have to try and understand someone else. It does NOT mean you have felt and do feel or are presuming to feel exactly what the other person feels. That is some nonsense people have come with and it is a wrong definition.

Empathy means you make the effort to go beyond just sympathy to try and find moments in your life where you may have felt something of the same and you try and put yourself in the other person's shoes, and you try out of kindness and compassion to imagine how they are feeling for the sake of being good to others and bonding with others.

I don't know why so many people can't understand and misunderstand this concept and the have a warped and wrong definition of the word in their heads. I can see some dictionary definitions aren't very good and don't explain it very well, but the point is to IMAGINE how the other person feels and that is traditionally seen as a good and compassionate thing to do.

Why would there be a word for having the exact feelings of someone else that's just absolutely stupid and nonsensical? I don't care if you go find some short, bad dictionary definition that doesn't adequately convey what the word means. I know what the word actually means. It is about making the effort to understand. It isn't some stupid thing about thinking you feel exactly the same. ???

The word empathy was coined in 1908 so Kirk was wrong about the it being a new term. However it didn't have the modern meaning until the 1940s. Kirk was another Roosh V or Andrew Tate that was doing a large amount of verbal trolling to get attention, to go viral and make money.

Kirk and others rejection of the term empathy is because empathy leads to things like spending tax payer dollars on helping homeless people, breakfast in schools for five year olds whose parents have no money, free rehab, food stamps, health care and education for the poor etc... which some people are opposed to.

I don't think he deserved to die, don't be ridiculous!

Did he deserve to be able to spread hate speech and indoctrinate children? No.

Does he deserve this much recognition and sadness? No.

Let me know when you care about more than what dear leader says. Until then, you're just the static on my TV with the rest of the cult.

You can't expect us to take you seriously, honestly.

Hint: Democrat congressmembers were assassinated in their homes just months ago, and neither Trump, Bondi, or anyone in MAGA really gave a shit.

Kirk didn't deserve to die, but he absolutely does not deserve our attention.

Is this one of the clearest, recent examples of the MAGA hivemind? Yes.

Now we see the administration trying to label Democrats and liberals as 'terrorist groups', even though the data is very clear that MAGA members are statistically way more violent than any other political group.

This sounds like tyrannical overreach and the laws are clear.

If y'all weren't so arrogant I would try harder to help you, but you guys have had a decade to research. It's insulting you even expect me to change my view. I will not downgrade myself to your level.

/thread.

I don't have any narrative in this thread.

If it meant what you think why would the word empathize even exist as a verb? Empathizing is putting in the effort to understand someone else's point of view. What do you even think Charlie Kirk was objecting to? He was objecting to men putting in the effort to understand women's feelings. He was objecting to white people putting in the effort to understand minorities feelings as he thought that was too woke, or straight people trying to understand how LGBT feel because that was too woke and annoying in his opinion.

It's an important word to know the correct meaning of. It's very sad that people are so idiotic as to think it means having the exact same feelings as any one else.

It has nothing to do with my being staff. Read this and the linked resources and maybe you'll begin to have a clue what the word actually means. Read something in depth to really understand what it means instead of whatever lousy definition you found somewhere. You believe the word empathy only means "I feel exactly the way s/he feels" is just ridiculously shallow and wrong so it's just very annoying. But I apologise for getting somewhat rude. It's more because the rule against that is gone.

If you are a snob about Wikipedia then read the linked resources instead.

And I don't really want to give you a minus 12, so I'll probably change it later but you did give me your max neg first.
