What happens if Bitcoin reaches $1 million?

A $1-million Bitcoin would upend global finance, reshaping wealth, inflation, energy markets and the very role of fiat currencies.

I will also cry. I remember back when it was around $400 and I had just over a whole Bitcoin. I regret every purchase I made with that ?

If Bitcoin hits $1 million, it would mark the largest transfer of wealth from traditional assets to a digital one in history. This could make governments rethink their monetary policies and more taxes for sure lmao.

I once sold one whole BTC to buy a newly launched smartphone haha.

That was years ago.

I remember back in the old days, Coinbase used to run ads in the banner on HF.

What people don't see is that $1m BTC is only a 10x from here. Bitcoin has been doing 10x for years. It's only a matter of time. And yes, could be 2-3 years, but could be 10 years. But even if it's 10 years or 15 years, that's still a 10x multiple from today and buying and holding Bitcoin is the only way to be a part of that.

People think they can't invest into Bitcoin because it's already inflated in value. That's silly, who doesn't want a 10x investment? You can invest $1k or $10k into Bitcoin and just hold it.

Personally, I think selling your BTC even at $1m is a massive mistake because once it hits $1m, it will be obvious it's going to $10m.
