Thread: What Games Have You Been Playing The Most This Year?

DemonAsylum - October 1, 2025, 5:10 pm

I honestly haven't played a ton of different games this year and so that makes it a little easier for a couple in particular to stick out in terms of how much I played them versus others, but I guess even if I did play tons of games this year, the same couple would have likely still been those that I played the most. Anyway, those couple of games are OSRS (Old School RuneScape) and Apex Legends. At the start of the year I may have been playing a good amount of Diablo 4 still or started it back up again. I was also likely still playing CoD for a bit. It couldn't have lasted too long for either though as I don't remember playing them around that time much. OSRS and Apex however I know I had multiple sizeable windows of time where I was playing a lot and even if not, was usually still on/off with them alongside whatever else I was playing. What games have you guys been playing most?

For me the main game is definitely rocket league or fortnite (I know i know ;/) But i just play these games with friends! Apart from them Probably Starcraft 2 and i am 99% sure it was this yeah that i found back to Star Wars: Empire at war. (Awesome game for people who like strategy games!) ;)

I played Apex legends for some time aswell but it just wasnt really fun for me, do you still play it frequently?

I did watch a good amount of gameplay from a couple of different streamers, but nah it just isn't my usual kind of game to play. Resident Evil is about the extent of that sort of genre for me haha. Looking forward to Requiem next year.

Probably Madden 25. Done a few career modes now.

A little bit of cs & rocket league as they have been my go to games for the last few years. I have dabbled the 2 week phase with modded minecraft packs but nothing too much has changed this year.

a bit too much old school runescape, its the og game and spend too long playing it

Michael - October 23, 2025, 2:44 am

Only Oldschool Runescap for now haha.
