ItsMeFox - October 1, 2025, 11:36 pm

Post #1000! ?

Just want to say thanks to everyone in this forum, I've learned, laughed, and shared so much with you all.

Looking forward to the next 1000 posts together. ?

I still remember when I was chasing that Ninja Award and checking in every single day for 100 days. ?

I also remember getting scammed a couple of times trying to sell crypto (lesson learned ?).

But beyond that, I've earned some great friends here and even made some good money by finding more customers.

So tell me, what keeps you coming back here every day?

Congrats on hitting 1,000 posts! ? That's a huge milestone and it really shows your dedication to the community. I think a lot of us can relate to those ups and downs — chasing awards, learning from mistakes, and building real connections along the way.

What keeps me coming back is definitely the mix of knowledge, opportunities, and the people here. There's always something new to learn, someone to network with, and most important a good conversations to be part of. Looking forward to seeing your next 1,000 posts! ?

i made less than 1k posts in more than 5 years,

Now it's required to make 500 posts in 30 days i don't know how can i do it, but i believe i will wake up tomorrow and forgot everything about that award and just go back to the watching set as I always have been lol :)

Fair enough. Doing 2.5 years worth in 30 days can stem farfetched haha.

Just think about all of the posts you've already made so far that are providing progress towards the award! That alongside the fact that you have this entire month to continue working towards it. I believe in you ?

Yeah I get you. It can be appealing to just buy it of course and I'm glad that is an option for people who simply don't have the time to earn it. Nothing wrong with not wanting to earn it either obviously haha. I'd say just post here and there during free time and who knows, maybe come towards the end of the money you find that you're close enough to get it by knocking out a bit more posts is all. If not and you're clearly just too far off, you can still buy it or just leave it be. Either way, whatever amount of posting you do will still be a positive ?

Exactly! Just have to find the enjoyment in sharing interactions with other members through the posting that you're doing. Assuming I understood the last part correctly, enjoy your food haha.
