Thread: What is your Spirit Animal?

P??sonl?af - October 3, 2025, 4:29 am

Hey,

One common question on job interviews is what your spirit animal would be & why. So What's yours?

Deany - October 3, 2025, 8:59 am

I think I am a calico cat.

A parrot? Didn't expect that! How come you relate to a parrot?

Yeah, it's one of those 'out of the box' questions they ask of the end of an interview to see how you respond.

Haven't you ever been in an interview where someone asked you, "Would you rather be the head of a donkey or the tail of a lion?" Someone actually asked me that once.

I would probably start laughing, maybe a bad sign for my interview xD

My last management position asked me 'Describe the colour blue to me' as last question. I was like dude... what the actual fuck.

I multitask while everyone else struggles with one.

Not my spirit animal, but the Kunga is cool for being one of the oldest known hybrids intentionally bred by a civilization.

I'll go with the {d}lammar / lamassu

Good choice

I love that sphinx, we visited and were able to spend a good amount of time there.
Lots of thoughts

There's nothing quite like taking a camel in Egypt and going into a pyramid.
I will never forget that trip

I hope it's easier to go there in the future
I would love to go back

Unfortunately so much is lost / stolen / destroyed. Not just recently... throughout thousands of years the region has been robbed of its true history, artifacts, and more.

I also really need to go to Iraq, Iran, and all surrounding areas.
I might need to start slow with lebanon, beirut, and nearby areas first

I truly hope things change. There's so much rich history in the region, and so much undiscovered or unpublished, not translated, etc.

It really is a shame what has happened over the last few decades. It could've been so much different.

same, but that doesn't mean anything.

If we all work towards a better future, it can be achieved.

People forget that it wasn't always like this.

Here's a photo from Iran in the 1970s:

We are all more alike than we realize.
Kings & presidents build walls and borders.
Clerics and priests require dress codes.
Schools tell the kids to stay seated.

The People just want to live.

"we are all, we are earth, we are one"
