

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Do you know any late bloomers? Or are you a late bloomer yourself?

Eran - October 4, 2025, 4:14 am

A late bloomer is someone who achieves success very later in life than other people their age.

Do you know anyone, and I'm curious to hear about their stories.

P??sonl?af - October 4, 2025, 4:16 am

My sister was actually a late-bloomer. It took a long time before she came out of her shell and started really experience life.

JoshAllen - October 7, 2025, 12:55 pm

I wouldn't consider myself a late bloomer, but I feel I "bloomed" later than most people, and I still am "blooming."

Throughout my entire life I always felt very behind in general. I felt I developed a lot of my life skills later than most people, especially social skills. I didn't realize it at the time, but I look back at my life and notice it a lot.

I think some of those areas I really struggled with, I do better than most people. There are still areas I feel behind on, but that's still growing.

RangoWorld - October 9, 2025, 1:38 am

I have not achieved the things I wanted with life at my age yet but I believe I will be getting all of that soon. I will very positive and hopeful.