Mom's Alleged Hit-and-Run Spree — with Her Kids in the Car.

The mother, Rachele Ricklefs, allegedly hit at least 10 people and multiple cars while driving with her two young children in the car.

This is like a normal occurrence in the US, same with shootings.

Not surprised anymore, what a wonderful example for her children right? now they might possibly grow older and think the same behavior is acceptable.

This shows that we need common-sense car laws.

We actually do, I live in rural America, and I couldn't even tell you how many times I have had to do defensive driving because these dumbasses don't know how to drive or hold their lane, it is too much to count.

It is extremely easy to get a license here, the drivers test does not even in the slightest show your roads skills, it took me 3 minutes to get my license , only recently did they now make it a requirement for vision screening when renewing so you either have to pass a vision test at the licensing regional office or have a waiver signed by an eye doctor.

So at least with the vision screening it will cut down on the ones with very high vision impairment from driving.

I believe we might need to start incorporating defensive driving classes as a requirement for new drivers, also there is many states that allow undocumented/illegal immigrants to obtain a drivers license, this needs to stop, if you are not in the US legally then you should not have any legal rights to drive, excluding those who are protected under DACA.

On a related note, first names are not required on driver's licenses.

Where I live you have to get 97% just to pass your first of three tests. The first time I sat it I got

In my state the requirements are or at least were written test, score at least 80% to pass 40 questions (I scored 99%) to receive a permit. Then depending on a few different things you may or may not have to do an intermediate stage. Me I was able to skip intermediate and go to full unrestricted license.

You're going to need to provide links for the forum to validate this claim. (If in fact it is true)

The fact that they're not a single fatality is incredible plus her children not being significantly hurt in the process is also a miracle. I was surprised to read one of the two kids jumped out the car while she had stopped for a moment, I wouldn't of been able to leave my younger 6year old brother behind if that 12 year old was me.

Ricklefs allegedly:

Struck at least 11 people, including a police officer, across multiple cities: Royal Oak, Clawson, Hazel Park, and Warren

Hit multiple vehicles, including police patrol cars

Had her 6-year-old daughter in the car during the spree; her 12-year-old son reportedly escaped the vehicle during a police encounter

Resisted arrest, allegedly biting and kicking officers when apprehended in a Walmart parking lot

Ricklefs faces 18 felony charges and one misdemeanor, including:

- 10 counts of assault with intent to murder
- 2 counts of fleeing police
- 2 counts of malicious destruction of police/fire property
- 2 counts of malicious destruction of personal property
- 1 count of assault with a dangerous weapon
- 1 count of resisting and obstructing police
- 1 count of fourth-degree child abuse

Authorities suspect Ricklefs may have been experiencing a schizophrenic episode during the incident. She has been referred for a mental competency evaluation, with a court hearing scheduled for December 2, 2025, to determine if she is fit to stand trial.
