Banning someone that was outing child predators, but not banning the predators is so insane.

The company is also facing multiple civil suits that allege it has enabled child predation.

Just kills me. At this point Roblox should be rekt.

Personally... I'd advise people to exploit and ruin it to attempt to push people from the platform and make it unplayable

i can't believe its still up , they are actively profiting off protecting child predators the CEO should be jailed

But aren't they all? From what I've read every social platform has repeat allegations of handling child exploitation poorly.

Not like roblox they are are actively exploiting it by insensitivity devs to create sexual themed games that have no age limit , i will agree other platforms are just letting it happen

After all the massive controversies that have actually led to kidnappings and countless online crimes they CEO has talked about integrating a DATING feature in the game which will just be used by pedophiles

They are not trying to hide intentions at all the CEO is actually a piece of shit

Yes, I have heard of the many lawsuits against Roblox. On top of just parents suing, I heard the state of Kentucky and Louisiana are also suing the company for the same thing. I thought those were user created games that people were referring to, I didn't realize it was games created by the company. I've never played the game, so not really familiar with it.

I watched a video on YouTube about a month ago, about a guy who catching creeps on the Roblox app, and despite giving them the evidence.. they ended up banning him from the platform.

I feel like I've been hearing about a "Red Light District" on Roblox since 2006! And news sources are STILL reporting on it. What the fuck. Bruce Rivers said if Roblox ever try to sue the predator hunters he will take their case for free.

Is it destroying itself or are they building something bigger behind the scenes?

At best it's the super low effort choice for the company. At worst you think they sympathise with the predators for a reason. They've really made themselves look bad. Totally see how it's the low effort clean up the mess tactic for a company but that doesn't make it at all right or OK. They look fucked.

Puts printed-- I am loving this.

Fuck em, let it go to $0 :) and let the kids get off these stupid games

The Pact - November 5, 2025, 3:10 am

Roblox is currently facing an absolute flood of lawsuits from numerous families and several U.S. state attorneys generals.

Several of these lawsuits involve cases where children were groomed, abducted, sexually assaulted, and, in some instances, died by suicide after being targeted by extremists or predators met on the platform. There are wrongful death accusations!

Like a bigger "Red Light District" for the kids to play in? Do you know what the thread is about?

It's been a really bad look for them.

RangoWorld - November 14, 2025, 2:12 am

I thought Roblox was one of the good games for kids

The "red light district" areas on Roblox have been described as places where users, sometimes including child avatars, are exposed to graphic images, digital sex parties, and other sexually suggestive content and behavior. This content can include suggestive avatar assets and explicit conversations.
