Thread: amazon or in person shopping for toothpaste

Fish - October 5, 2025, 1:26 am

What does everyone here prefer?

Lets say you needed new toothpaste or floss. Would you order just that on amazon, or run into walmart to buy it?

For me - initially I was 100% amazon, but now I'm trying to go more in person and stop being lazy

I seldomly use amazon or online markets , prefer to buy things myself from local markets

Depends on the rush I need to get it, if I am in good time I might as well just buy it online.

I buy it in person.

I can grab it immediately when I run out.

Yanix - October 5, 2025, 3:55 am

I usually get it on my own and buy some more stuffs at the same time.

I'd say it depends on the item and how urgent it is. For something I need immediately, I'll swing by a store , can't wait two days for toothpaste! ?

In person because if Amazon delays it the bacteria in my mouth are throwing a rave

Whatever is cheapest. If I only need toothpaste, then Amazon most likely. No sense in a trip to the store just for that.

In person. I'm very picky when it comes to picking up the right toothbrush.

Even if you know exactly what you want to buy?
