Thread: Good Horror Movie Recommendations

• Enlil Wolf • - October 7, 2025, 3:18 am

As the title reads, I love watching Horror movies and have seen a vast number of them. So, I need a few recommendations that I may have missed for Halloween.

Bastille - October 7, 2025, 3:23 am

Do you have a list of those you've already watched ? Are you into recent movies only or you're also watching old ones like from the 80s / 90s ?

When you say "Horror" does it mean gore movies too ?

I do have an IMDB & Trakt watchlist that I maintain.

I am open to movies from any era, even foreign with subs.

Not a fan of gore and the killer type movies, and is towards the bottom my horror sub-category.

I also love horror movies.
I suggest you watch

The Dark and the Wicked
Husk

Oh, I already watched, The Dark and the Wicket - it was very good. I love movies like these. As for Husk, I haven't watched that, is it good?

Terrifier 2 and 3 are a must watch but they are really gorey wont say much but the ending of 3 is disappointing. they could have done a lot more and Scream 2 is my all time favorite horror movie. opening scene and movie is great

Yeah, I noticed Terrifier in my radar in recent years, the only reason I skipped it or didn't watch was because it was too much gorey with the killer trope which is not my favorite kind of horror. I mean, I did watch Jeepers Creepers 1 & 2 back in the day, and the Evil Dead ones, especially the remake of the original which was way too bloody.

Scream, I have watched, it's not bad. Thank you for sharing.

Yeah, it was good. They build on the first one in a nice manner. The third if they do make it will be even more interesting, as the ending was just... unexpected.

Yesterday, my friend just give me this movie LA LLORONA but I haven't seen this one. I've check on the trailer and it seems a really cool horror movie.

As I said brother, there are going to be only a handful of horror movies that I probably didn't watch. But yeah, it's definitely a good re-watch for spooky season.

Haha, I watched both part 1 & 2 for It, was good. Same for World War Z and I am Legend. I truly expected a sequel to World War Z though, sadly, it never happened.

Weapons was really good and also has some elements of humor.

Mix - October 22, 2025, 9:42 pm

I cant recommend a good one but a bad one that I was scared at when I was a child was a film called house of wax. Was scared shitless of it when I was a kid but I rewatched it like 20 years later and I must admit I dont know why I was so scared of it.

Yeah, I loved Weapons, even though the humor part was something I wasn't prepared for, considering how dark it was.

Ah, House of Wax, I am guessing it is the one with Paris Hilton in that one scene, I also remember watching it as a kid.

dude I think it was the whole wax shit that scared me half the time as a child. that shit just was creepy.

I agree. Back then, it was scary - but now, aftering seeing the things we have seen, that's comic :')

I would almost say its a comedy as its not really scary. I guess times were a lot more simple back then.

Haha, to be fair to the makers. The tags for the movie are as follows: Body horror, Slasher horror, Teen horror, Horror & Thriller. So, even though it has become comic to us, its far from Comedy ?

I mean for the time when it was out it was right where it needed to be to scare people. These days horror is very differnt.

I agree. It has changed vastly over the years.
