

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: POLL: Best Flipping Platforms

Tyr - October 7, 2025, 9:06 am

Your choice as a flipper?

Oh_Well - October 7, 2025, 9:53 am

I don't have experience with flipping but I'm curious to what others have to say

Tyr - October 7, 2025, 9:58 am

(Oct 7, 2025 09:53 AM)Oh_Well Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't have experience with flipping but I'm curious to what others have to say it's addicting asf actually. the only downside is dealing with the restrictions and hassle of shipping via ebay; if you like business and selling stuff you can start small and turn it into a very successful business.

Jamika - October 7, 2025, 11:13 am

Never tried anything but epay so i will choose it

Deany - October 7, 2025, 11:31 am

I only ever used ebay tbh

Tyr - October 7, 2025, 6:37 pm

(Oct 7, 2025 11:31 AM)Deany Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I only ever used ebay tbh ever have any issues w/ them holding your funds?

Deany - October 7, 2025, 6:38 pm

(Oct 7, 2025 06:37 PM)Tyr Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) ever have any issues w/ them holding your funds?
Wdym hold ? It goes to bank after a sale

Mech - October 7, 2025, 6:50 pm

Probably Ebay for me, I have never really used Mercari. I have used Poshmark and had a crazy active account from like 6 months of botting. I think it had like 300k followers by the time I finally turned that bot off.

Tyr - October 7, 2025, 7:34 pm

(Oct 7, 2025 06:38 PM)Deany Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wdym hold ? It goes to bank after a sale
True, what I mean is them preventing you from reusing your account even though you paid off their credit. I am pissed at them rn bc paid off outstanding fees but they're tying me

Deany - October 7, 2025, 7:40 pm

(Oct 7, 2025 07:34 PM)Tyr Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) True, what I mean is them preventing you from reusing your account even though you paid off their credit. I am pissed at them rn bc paid off outstanding fees but they're tying me
Oh naw never had problems like that

Tyr - October 7, 2025, 7:59 pm

(Oct 7, 2025 07:40 PM)Deany Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Oh naw never had problems like that They're trying me so hard right now because I basically left their outstanding invoice on my seller account inactive for 2y hoping they would just dissolve the shit

Deany - October 7, 2025, 8:00 pm

(Oct 7, 2025 07:59 PM)Tyr Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They're trying me so hard right now because I basically left their outstanding invoice on my seller account inactive for 2y hoping they would just dissolve the shit Ima get back into reselling tho need cash lolz

Tyr - October 7, 2025, 8:02 pm

(Oct 7, 2025 08:00 PM)Deany Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ima get back into reselling tho need cash lolz It's fun though too -- I always wished I had the time to run a mega company on eBay like some of them boyz

sharn - October 26, 2025, 8:59 am

My choice is eBay.
eBay is easy to list items quickly.
It has a huge buyer base.

DAL-SHA - October 26, 2025, 11:14 am

(Oct 7, 2025 09:53 AM)Oh_Well Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't have experience with flipping but I'm curious to what others have to say
Same here , i don't wanna vote just to keep the votes clean from people who have no experience in flipping on platforms ..

Palestine - October 26, 2025, 11:16 am

(Oct 7, 2025 09:06 AM)Tyr Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Your choice as a flipper?
I find ebay to have much more items to buy or sell on but I do prefer to buy on Amazon more. I'm not sure about selling on Amazon I've never done it yet.

B3A - October 30, 2025, 5:11 pm

Amazon is not available here , I don't know the second one so I'll go with my only option , Ebay

Tyr - November 13, 2025, 10:08 am

(Oct 29, 2025 11:13 PM)Pimping Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Mecari and ebay definitely i do ecom/flipping as my job

I know amazon is good but its a lot more work. another good is poshmark but its for some certain items
Way more work it seems. Gotta also use an efficient pricing strategy to keep up with other suppliers on there Same for Walmart's new MP which sucks.

(Oct 30, 2025 05:11 PM)B3A Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Amazon is not available here , I don't know the second one so I'll go with my only option , Ebay

Dodged a bullet not knowing them. They owe me a lot of money and attached some type of global identifier to me that circumvents me from opening an account in my name after I called them the mexican version of eBay (sorry Nintendo).

SophieLF - December 8, 2025, 12:06 am

(Oct 7, 2025 09:06 AM)Tyr Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Your choice as a flipper?
Ebay

i am - December 8, 2025, 8:32 am

How much do you guys make doing this? Curious.

Tyr - December 10, 2025, 9:00 pm

(Dec 8, 2025 09:32 AM)i am Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How much do you guys make doing this? Curious.

Doing market analysis for in-demand categories by looking over different platforms mentioned then creating a site as a side hustle to funnel your omnichannels there after a good amount of exposure is also a way to see decent ROI but in all honesty, this is really more of a sidehustle. It's a decent side hustle if you have the time and a main source of income. Imho when selling tangible products particularly, your niche inevitably will be the most important part of revenue generation aside from creating your own model after trial and error; unless you're just flipping stuff you've had on hand without buying and reselling.

I've had the most success selling a wide variety of items on Mercari instead of targeting a particular product mix and market segment (basically a closet for everything and anything ranging from electronics to clothing that I either would get wholesale, were items I once owned, or stuff I purchased years ago and waited for the correct time to flip it. There are sites that let you use predictive modeling to determine the best items to do this with and Chat can also make good recommendations based on the current demand.

Sport cards, gameboy games, clothing, refurbished (either by me or elsewhere via contracting with a 3pp vendor to do cheaper) phones and laptops as well. If you know of local PC repair shops, it's a great place to start by calling them and seeing if they have older macbooks and stuff like that they'd be willing to either give away or sell at a low price that you could receive a 17-35% return on depending on how you position the product is very possible.

gl

RangoWorld - December 10, 2025, 11:29 pm

I tried my hand on eBay before Covid years. It worked.

i am - December 11, 2025, 6:16 am

(Dec 10, 2025 10:00 PM)Tyr Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Doing market analysis for in-demand categories by looking over different platforms mentioned then creating a site as a side hustle to funnel your omnichannels there after a good amount of exposure is also a way to see decent ROI but in all honesty, this is really more of a sidehustle. It's a decent side hustle if you have the time and a main source of income. Imho when selling tangible products particularly, your niche inevitably will be the most important part of revenue generation aside from creating your own model after trial and error; unless you're just flipping stuff you've had on hand without buying and reselling.

I've had the most success selling a wide variety of items on Mercari instead of targeting a particular product mix and market segment (basically a closet for everything and anything ranging from electronics to clothing that I either would get wholesale, were items I once owned, or stuff I purchased years ago and waited for the correct time to flip it. There are sites that let you use predictive modeling to determine the best items to do this with and Chat can also make good recommendations based on the current demand.

Sport cards, gameboy games, clothing, refurbished (either by me or elsewhere via contracting with a 3pp vendor to do cheaper) phones and laptops as well. If you know of local PC repair shops, it's a great place to start by calling them and seeing if they have older macbooks and stuff like that they'd be willing to either give away or sell at a low price that you could receive a 17-35% return on depending on how you position the product is very possible.

gl

Thanks for the all the knowledge brother. I'll give it a shot. Hope business has been treating you well.

