

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Fanable Gets \$11.5M to Power the Future of Pokmon & Collectibles; \$COLLECT Token F

Stanley - October 10, 2025, 1:35 pm

Fanable Gets $11.5M to Power the Future of Pokémon & Collectibles; $COLLECT Token F

Fanable, a Web3 marketplace for Pokémon, comic books, and digital collectibles, has successfully achieved $11.5 million in backing. The capital will fuel platform development, global expansion, and the introduction of Web3-native features. Fanable is partnering with the Collect Foundation to launch a point farming campaign for the upcoming $COLLECT token.

https://hackernoon.com/fanable-gets-\$115m-to-power-the-future-of-pokemon-and-collectibles-\$collect-token-farming-goes-live?source=rss

Vectura - October 10, 2025, 2:22 pm

$11.5M is a big win for the collectibles space. If Fanable pulls this off right, it could bridge the gap between Web3 and traditional collectors.

Charlie Sheen - October 10, 2025, 3:14 pm

This could be huge. A friend of mine bought in on the Hot Wheels NFTs and made a good deal of money selling them to collectors later on.

Aeowulf - October 11, 2025, 5:52 am

Are people still paying for digital collectibles though? I would imagine that's nearly dead now... if it ain't real... it ain't real.

JoshAllen - October 11, 2025, 6:11 am

This is huge for the collectible space in general, not just Pokemon.

This is a great way to digitize physical items.

Ieste - October 30, 2025, 5:31 pm

$11.5M in backing is huge support for moving Pokémon and other collectibles to Web3.