Thread: Average HF members age

What do you think the average age of HF members are?

I am gonna say between 25 and 30 years old. I think most of the current members are around that age.... dont even think anyone below the age of 25 really uses forums especially nowadays

Yeah it was more common for kids/teens to join forums in the early 2010s
but now i dont think the average teen even knows what a forum is hahaha

I see a lot of ten year badges so I'm guessing 25-35

I think the ballpark of 20-35 is right, as most who has been around here for a decade or more joined in their late teens to young adult phase.

It's not easy to say for new members, but for people who are active on HF I would say around 30, forums are not attractive for the new generation, they prefer using Discord or Telegram, but in my opinion it's also less qualitative and the risks of getting scammed / infected is higher.

I'd say the average age is probably around 25–30. Forums like Hackforums tend to attract people who've been online for a while and have a specific interest in hacking or tech communities. Younger people today mostly hang out on social media or Discord, so I doubt there are many under 25 actively using these forums.

Average I would say is 27.

I am sure theres more younger members that arent active or dont post

I think like 80% of the active posting members are older. most of us were kids/teens when we joined HF back in the early 2010s or its returning members joining back.... there is a few outliers though

Everyone that has said your real age your are all going to be raided by the CIA for looking at how to crack photoshop or installing minecraft cheats lol

I think most of the most knowledgeable people here are abit older now 30+ , its become alot less chaotic in the last few years you can sense the responsibility in the tone of the posts

From baby hackers to full time jobs with mortgages ahh don't you love growing up
