I am a big fan of watching documentaries - so, if you have ever watched something that was HQ and informative and good to watch for knowledge, please share your recommendations.

I'm the same, I love a good documentary. A few I really enjoyed recently: The Social Dilemma for tech and social media insights, Our Planet for breathtaking nature cinematography, and Inside Bill's Brain if you want to dive into problem-solving and innovation. All of them are high-quality and super informative without being boring.

Not an exactly accurate Documentary but HBO's Chernobyl is a must watch.

'Exit Through the Gift Shop' was really enjoyable and well done.
