

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Drink Water

plops - October 13, 2025, 6:41 am

Are you a psycho that drinks straight tap water? Or do you prefer filtered or even reverse osmosis.

I only drink filtered, i have a tank under my sink that gives me a drinking water spout.

I was gifted a reverse osmosis thing some time ago but i ended up pulling it down and going back to filtered water. I could not, not be thirsty with reverse osmosis, was weird.

I keep it for emergencies in case water becomes contaminated now.

Have you had reverse osmosis water?

DramaKing - October 13, 2025, 7:02 am

I'm sure that I've had reverse osmosis water that was store-bought. Got my mother a filter that connects to the kitchen faucet. Works well. Parents procrastinate on changing the filter every year, though.

aj33b9009 - October 13, 2025, 8:59 am

I have a water filter at home that I drink from.

Oh_Well - October 13, 2025, 9:05 am depends on where you live. I generally prefer tap water, but if it has any funny taste I prefer filtered

RangoWorld - October 13, 2025, 9:14 am

I drink filter water. I'm very careful with hygiene

HerrWinston - October 13, 2025, 1:09 pm

I only drink filtered and as the thread subject suggests, time to drink some water now, I am 99% sure I havent drunken nearly enough today, thanks for the reminder :)

PhillyStyle - October 13, 2025, 3:03 pm

I drink tap water sometimes. I just had a glass of it and I'm still alive and kicking.

plops - October 13, 2025, 3:16 pm

(Oct 13, 2025 03:03 PM)PhillyStyle Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I drink tap water sometimes. I just had a glass of it and I'm still alive and kicking.

For now you are...

Depends on where you live though i guess

(Oct 13, 2025 01:09 PM)HerrWinston Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I only drink filtered and as the thread subject suggests, time to drink some water now, I am 99% sure I havent drunken nearly enough today, thanks for the reminder :)

Make sure you don't drink too much!

Laylo - October 13, 2025, 3:20 pm

I drink tap water pretty frequently. I live in a Canadian city that has pretty clean drinking water.

plops - October 13, 2025, 3:20 pm

(Oct 13, 2025 07:02 AM)DramaKing Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm sure that I've had reverse osmosis water that was store-bought. Got my mother a filter that connects to the kitchen faucet. Works well. Parents procrastinate on changing the filter every year, though.

Yeah if they last a year, they're easy to forget!

Eran - October 15, 2025, 9:44 am

I drink tap water all the time. Not boujee.

DAL-SHA - October 15, 2025, 1:55 pm

ofc filtered bottled water !! where I'm from drinking from the tap water isn't even an option !!

sharn - October 19, 2025, 11:01 am

Filtered water feels safer to me.

I like the peace of mind knowing it is clean.

Palestine - October 20, 2025, 12:34 pm

(Oct 13, 2025 06:41 AM)plops Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Are you a psycho that drinks straight tap water? Or do you prefer filtered or even reverse osmosis.

I only drink filtered, i have a tank under my sink that gives me a drinking water spout.

I was gifted a reverse osmosis thing some time ago but i ended up pulling it down and going back to filtered water. I could not, not be thirsty with reverse osmosis, was weird.

I keep it for emergencies in case water becomes contaminated now.

Have you had reverse osmosis water?

I can drink filtered water but it has to be relatively cold or cold and I also can't drink water too much if I'm real thirsty throughout the day I usually drink some iced

Yin Yang - October 20, 2025, 1:43 pm

Filtered or bottle water for me

Lowkey - October 20, 2025, 3:54 pm

Niagara + Core water are the only ones you should be drinking.

Tap is literal chlorine piss and fluoride and most bottled waters are "392 PH!!!" and nonsense spring water with "naturally occurring" fluoride in it.

The problem here is I almost never see the specifications it should be in the measurements that correlate with the % "naturally occurring" vs. the percent of actual fluoride

(meaning, the % is being manipulated)

(fluoride is an anion of fluorine basically whenever fluorine comes in contact with metal or any hydrogen having compound it becomes fluoride just fyi)

Anyways I'm saying the percentages don't match up for how that typically occurs in nature and then BAM. Next thing you know your pineal gland is calcified and you enjoy sports and getting told what to do by people wearing suits.

Sqlinjking - October 20, 2025, 4:41 pm

Drink juice

JoshAllen - October 20, 2025, 6:02 pm

Thank you for the reminder. Just chugged my bottle like I ran a marathon.

Mix - October 20, 2025, 6:42 pm

I prefer filtered but if I have no other option and I need to drink water from the tap I will but it will be a small amount compared to anything else as I know what tap water can be like.

qwxzp - October 20, 2025, 8:12 pm

I also have filter under my sink but it doesnt get rid of feeling that im drinking unfiltered water :/

ClickAds - October 20, 2025, 8:23 pm

I usually just drink filtered water too. I tried reverse osmosis once, but it didn't really feel satisfying, so I stick with filtered.

Deany - October 20, 2025, 9:17 pm

Ya I drink too much water.

Pimping - October 20, 2025, 10:41 pm

I drink bottled water i should get a filter but keep forgetting about it

Eran - October 22, 2025, 6:27 am

This deserves a bump, everyone stay hydrated and don't forget to take vitamin D incase you're not getting enough sun! :D

Jinu - October 22, 2025, 6:58 am

I actually only have RO water as an option, so that's what I drink. Took a bit to get used to the taste at first, but now it's just normal. At least I know the water's clean!

Deany - October 22, 2025, 7:01 am

I frickin love water where my hydro homies?

The Pact - October 23, 2025, 1:06 am

I live in a place where the tap water is safe to drink. The drinking water is regulated and high safety standards are enforced.

I remember even as a little kid flying to the USA to visit my grandma in California and it was so weird to me that you could not drink water from a tap and we had to drive way out some long distance to a place to buy bottled water.

OldLeafs - October 23, 2025, 6:00 am

I only drink tap water at home, at work I drink bottled water (probably not good).

I definitely have not been drinking enough water. I have been off work for 2 weeks and beer has been a better option

onlineuser | D3RFER - October 23, 2025, 10:31 am

It really comes down to where you are from.

I drink tap water and that's perfectly fine here.

Michael - October 24, 2025, 2:16 am

Prefer bottled water.

jcole - October 24, 2025, 3:50 am

I drink at least a gallon of water a day