Thread: Woman Found Guilty in Fatal Stabbing of a 3-Year-Old in Grocery Parking Lot

The Pact - October 16, 2025, 10:38 pm

A woman was found guilty of fatally stabbing a 3-year-old boy outside of a Cleveland, Ohio supermarket.

Ellis stole two knives from the Volunteers of America Thrift Store, which is located next to the Giant Eagle supermarket. She then entered the store, and as she did she spotted Julian and his mother, Margot Wood, and proceeded to follow them.

Ellis continued to follow them after Margot paid for the groceries and exited the store. Ellis then followed the mother and son to their vehicle.

She immediately stabbed Julian multiple times as he sat in the shopping cart and Margot loaded the groceries into her car, she said during her testimony, per Cleveland.com. Margot said Ellis stabbed Julian in the face. Margot tried to pull him out of the cart and was stabbed in her shoulder. Ellis then turned back to Julian and stabbed him in the back.

A nearby witness of the stabbing, Travis Bush, testified and said that he confronted Ellis about what she had done.

Following the week-and-a-half-long trial, Ellis was convicted on nine criminal counts, including aggravated murder, felonious assault, child endangering and aggravated theft.

A grand jury indicted Bianca Ellis on the charges last year, and she was being held in jail on a $5 million bond. After being found guilty this week, she awaits her sentencing on Oct. 27, per ABC News.

And honestly, I think it was possibly a hate crime. No offense meant to anyone black but when an extremely black person goes for a ginger child? When they don't even know the family and it's a complete stranger. That little baby was a ginger.

Yeah, same. Kids are just so sweet and innocent. It was definitely pre-meditated... following them around the store? So many moments where they could have just walked away, but no... so fucked up.

There defense attorney tried not guilty by reason of insanity, but failed.

I think I remember hearing about this, what a horrific tragedy poor kid smh. I also remember a landlord stabbing a 7 year old kid to death and his mother was also stabbed but survived. The landlord admitted to doing it because they were "Palestinians and Muslim" smh

It likely is a hate crime, those who are offended by you or anyone saying that are likely the same people who will immediately scream racism and hate crime if the roles were reversed.

The media often likes to paint racism in the USA as only a white issue but the reality is there is just as much racist black people not only against white people but a lot of racism towards Asians also come from black people in this country, if that offends anyone tough shit that is just the reality.

Who is to blame for it though? it isn't the fault of black people nor white people that this kind of racism exists, it is the government and media who push this, they want the division.

Blacks, Whites, Asians, Hispanics, we are all a bunch of fools falling for the bullshit and if people do not unite soon I don't see this country making it much longer without a lot of chaos or the possibility of a civil war.

I definitely agree too not just white people can be racist but so can every other race too idk why people like to claim that only white people can be it makes no sense

They claim they can't be racist because that is how the government and media programmed them.

I call it how it is, if you hate anyone because of skin color you are fucking racist, no sugar coating, no pampering no if ands or buts, racist.

Now if you don't like the actions someone does and those actions align more with a specific race, calling that out isn't racist it is just reality, white people are more likely to shoot up schools, black people are more likely to shoot up their own neighborhoods, it is just terrible realities that need to be solved.

100% facts. Racism doesn't have a color. Period. Anybody can be a racist.

What I came back with when someone was giving this agreement is "They can't be systemically racist, but they can invoke personal racism." Using the language of that movement this is my argument.

Because they're trying to say people without privilege that are not part of a racist system can't be racist. But unfortunately anyone can be racist [or otherwise bigoted] on a personal one on one level.

The three year old is uber white. So, it was possibly a hate crime seeing as there is no discernable motive. And some people unfortunately see someone being ultra fair as a symbol. Ironical because gingers are such a minority within their own racial group.

Ohio technically has the death penalty, but executions have been suspended by the governor due to issues with the lethal injection method. While the state still has death row inmates and a legal framework for capital punishment, Governor Mike DeWine has stated he will not authorize any executions until a new method is legislatively adopted.
