

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Been grinding nonstop lately when does the tunnel actually open up?

jasonust - October 17, 2025, 12:35 pm

Not sure if it's just me, but lately every day feels like a blur of building, testing, rethinking, rebuilding. I've been running multiple projects, trying to get each one off the ground while keeping my head above water. Don't get me wrong — I love the process. The late nights, the wins, even the small breakthroughs that no one else sees. But sometimes it just hits me how much of this game is mental.

Feels like I'm walking through a tunnel that's miles long. I know there's light on the other side, but there's no telling how far ahead it actually is.

Curious — how do you guys handle that? The part of the grind where you're putting everything into the machine, but it's too early to see the results yet?

Palestine - October 17, 2025, 1:27 pm

Sorry what exactly are you taking about again

Jamika - October 17, 2025, 1:46 pm

(Oct 17, 2025 12:35 PM)jasonust Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not sure if it's just me, but lately every day feels like a blur of building, testing, rethinking, rebuilding. I've been running multiple projects, trying to get each one off the ground while keeping my head above water. Don't get me wrong — I love the process. The late nights, the wins, even the small breakthroughs that no one else sees. But sometimes it just hits me how much of this game is mental.

Feels like I'm walking through a tunnel that's miles long. I know there's light on the other side, but there's no telling how far ahead it actually is.

Curious — how do you guys handle that? The part of the grind where you're putting everything into the machine, but it's too early to see the results yet?

There is no lights at the end buddy , just give up like i did

Palestine - October 17, 2025, 5:18 pm

(Oct 17, 2025 01:46 PM)Jamika Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There is no lights at the end buddy , just give up like i did

lol that does sound about time, usually the outcome for people by the time they finish something they've worked on for so long

DAL-SHA - October 19, 2025, 12:04 am

(Oct 17, 2025 12:35 PM)jasonust Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not sure if it's just me, but lately every day feels like a blur of building, testing, rethinking, rebuilding. I've been running multiple projects, trying to get each one off the ground while keeping my head above water. Don't get me wrong — I love the process. The late nights, the wins, even the small breakthroughs that no one else sees. But sometimes it just hits me how much of this game is mental.

Feels like I'm walking through a tunnel that's miles long. I know there's light on the other side, but there's no telling how far ahead it actually is.

Curious — how do you guys handle that? The part of the grind where you're putting everything into the machine, but it's too early to see the results yet?

Best of luck man , keep hustling ! u will get there its just a mater of time .. i feel u