He's currently livestreaming from Thailand ?? for his 45 million subs!!!

He's one of the few streamers that I can stand watching, he's about to hit his goal now!

Chorozon - October 21, 2025, 7:08 am

At least he doesn't go to mess with people in asia like alot of the rest

I wonder how vitality is liking his new home

It was when he landed in south korea , some ex military guy found him and punched the hell out of him

JoshAllen - October 21, 2025, 7:44 am

I am really not a fan of watching streamers in general, but I do really like ISHOWSPEED.

Very entertaining and energetic, while also being really respectful, and mature since he started.

Yin Yang - October 21, 2025, 8:21 am

Dude is pretty crazy and entertaining

It was after that johnny guy got arrested in south korea , i don't think vitality did anything to crazy just pranked people and was being annoying i think the country was just showing that they wont have western influencers come and troll them for views

Walter - October 21, 2025, 8:38 am

Love his livestreams! Honestly, that's the only content of his I actually enjoy.

Cool guy though, it's fun getting a glimpse of different countries and cultures through him.

He literally scammed his viewers with a scam token and was caught talking about it when he thought the mic was off.

I remember this he was scammed himself by the people who made the token. He was still just 17 or 18 and literally had no idea what the hell crypto was about and nothing about how a token can potentially be a scam until it was too late. They even scammed him and trolled him by promising him the chance to meet Cristiano Ronaldo but it was some fool pretending to be him.

Speed later on said how it all turned out to be a scam and that he made nothing from it (I believe) and he will never again bother with something like that.

They promised his fans free PS5s and tokens and the opportunity to make loads of "free money" but they had totally different motives.

He took it as a learning opportunity and thankfully his fanbase wasn't scammed for much at all. He was literally still a kid even now he's just 20 and that was 2 or 3 years ago.

Yeah he definitely turned out becoming a great example of what and how famous streamers should be unlike all of the nuisance streamers going around. He's very kind and always blessed those in need especially the homeless and stray animals. He's genuinely an awesome kid. For as rich and famous as he is he surely doesn't pretend to be better than everybody else.

Here's a few more, another person who sees 1 negative thing and never gets over it. Out of every single streamer on this planet, Speed isn't the one to be a cry baby about. Your name is literally Charlie Sheen, the guy who was a fucking laundry list of 'bad behaviour' including fucking a 13 year old boy ??? - but god forbid a teenager gets tricked into taking a bad sponsorship 1 time.

Keep bootlicking and thinking those videos are real. Cameras are rolling of course he's going to try to be America's sweetheart. Quit being sad about a warning from 4 months ago.

I wasn't aware of that video, but I'm not exactly slow either. The moment a streamer with a young audience suddenly starts shilling some random crypto coin no one's ever heard of, you know it's a scam. I'd have sniffed that out in half a second if I'd seen the clip earlier.

Honestly, he really did his fans dirty with that one. I never caught that video myself since I usually just watch his livestreams.

And about Charlie calling people "bootlickers", let's be real, he'd probably have agreed to one of those shady promotions himself if he knew how much money was on the table. We're talking years of the average American's salary for a single shout-out, no offense to Charlie here.

I don't think you clicked any of the videos I linked, every single one of them is ISP giving shit away to fans/workers/friends/strangers etc.

No one knows if ISP knew that it was a crypto scam or not, but the people behind it were pretty evil and manipulative, there's videos of them after the fact threatening people, calling them out. Asking for peoples addresses in their chat and shit. They are pretty evil dudes and as an adult, if you think that an 18 year old teenager can't be manipulated I just think you're at the very least, being dishonest. 18 year olds are fucking stupid.

Edit: Just realised Charlie Sheen said he warned me 4 months ago, I didn't know he did, weird he cares so much to remember specific details about me when I seriously don't remember a thing about him.

P sure you never warned me, and if you did, why do you remember that? I legit don't have a clue about anything about you or who you are. The only thing I know about you, is that you like to have your name as a celeb who fucked a young boy. Also isn't bootlicker a military phrase? I don't even watch Speed, I don't watch any livestreams or benefit from talking him up at all. Just weird you hold onto something a teenager did, maybe it's just a thing with Charlie Sheen fans and young boys.

I mean, some guys flew in from Dubai trying to push some random crypto nobody's ever heard of, that MoneyKicks guy and his crew. No offense, but everything coming out of Dubai lately gives off major scam vibes.

To be fair, I think he later admitted it and actually regretted the whole thing. Haven't seen him promote any crypto since, honestly. I remember one of his IRL streams in Europe, some people tried to get him to do a hand sign for a crypto coin, and he flat-out refused. So yeah, looks like he learned his lesson.

As for those videos.. yeah, I've seen them. Totally normal stuff. He does solid work, and I've watched plenty of his IRL streams.

Dubai is a shithole, they are sorta like China were they have multiple decades of deplorable behaviour, so now they just pay for positive press as much as they can.

Yeah he definitely was take advantage of and learned his lesson big time. He swore to never accept any other deal promoting anything like that again. He was so young and he's still young he's only now 20 and he was like 17 then. He genuinely had no idea how crypto works and about how they can rip off all his fans by using him to promote their token. It was a mistake that he learned from and has moved on. He's a great kid he genuinely loves his fans and literally ALWAYS helps out people in need.

His stream today at 5PM EST will be about this kid crying to him saying his mom was about to become homeless and he managed to track him down so we'll see what happens.

He's one of the only streamers I can tolerate watching.
