Thread: Night rides are amazing

Late October, went to pick up some kush and just drove around, no cars around, just vibes and great music.

Do you often enjoy going on long night rides?

Charlie Sheen - October 21, 2025, 2:33 pm

Still riding your scooter?

Nah man ditched that thing almost 2 years ago.

What do you have now?

Just an older Mazda. I decided to go with a cheaper car and use the rest to fund my festival activities during the summer and I do not regret it the slightest.

Well that's good. Any issues with it? Definitely beats a scooter.

Nah, I got it for super cheap actually. It was a weird string of coincidences that lead me to buy it, and while on the bus ride to the city I was buying in it, we switched buses not once, but TWICE. Two buses broke down and a bus ride of 3 hours became a 7 hour rainy shithole. Came to the city at midnight, rain pouring, just said fuck it, I won't even check it, here's the cash, I just wanna go home lol. Had a morning shift the next day.

Had it for 6 months now and not a single problem.

That's awesome. What model is it? I think Omni is getting a Miata.

Mazda 3. Lots of mileage too but it's obvious it was very well taken care of. Plan on getting bigger rims and new headlights soon as well as a nice audio system. I don't care if it's older, it's good enough for me, until I get my finances up.

That's solid. I don't know how costs are there, but here you can get some high quality LED headlights plug n play for pretty cheap.

Night rides are amazing, indeed. There is nothing to bother you, it's only you and the streets.

I LOVE night cruises especially with a good friend or with my girl, smoking a nice fat blunt with some great music. You couldn't ever go wrong with a nice late night cruise!

Yin Yang - October 21, 2025, 5:52 pm

Bro I legit did the same thing. A crisp 50 out

Jinu - October 21, 2025, 6:25 pm

Yeah, I love night rides. There's something peaceful about empty roads and good music.

Hackers - October 21, 2025, 6:28 pm

Night rides are good, but it depends on the roads. A windy road through the woods for an hour in pitch black without lights, facilities, etc can either be the most relaxing or unnerving experience. Depends on the driver, car, and speed

If any of you ski or snowboard, have you done a night run anywhere? It can be surreal boarding or skiing at night, as long as the mountain (or specific slopes) are well lit. Seeing the night sky and having most of the snow to yourself (not many out usually) is incredible.

I used to get cravings for a frozen coke at like 1am. So, I'd drive to McD's drive through. I bought my frozen coke, and then yes I really enjoyed driving around listening to hip-hop . It was awesome having no cars around just vibes and great music.

The catch? My [late] husband thought I might be having an affair! ?

Don't worry this story isn't that bad. He did suspect it and finally called me out on it, but I'm pretty sure he believed me in the end. I was completely innocent.

Pimping - October 24, 2025, 1:27 am

Agreed and yes i absolutely love night rides

I love doing it in the fall/winter as long as roads aren bad. its so beautiful driving at night in the winter seeing all the christmas decorations and everything....

9/10 times when someone makes a thread and it mentions strains or kush, I already know there's a 99% chance you are from USA.

Either way - late night drives are so peaceful

Chorozon - October 24, 2025, 6:32 am

I miss covid , long drives at night and the cities were empty

Rahul007rhp - October 24, 2025, 7:30 am

I do the scooter / bike rides with my girl at nights . Sadly we couldnt vibe to songs but we spend some quality time

Script Man - October 24, 2025, 7:34 am

I'm 29 and I was only driving for like 6 months basically when I was 19. I got a car later on at like 24 or something, but I was "manipulated" into the back of a lorry, while listening to the radio. I broke both my legs and neck, and even though I can drive, I haven't re-applied. Instead; for the last few years I thought I was becoming a BILLIONAIRE, but I was crossed by gays/people you love. :<

DAL-SHA - October 24, 2025, 10:24 am

Yes i do enjoy long car rides at night , especially when i need time for myself .. it helps me when I'm overthinking !!

Eran - October 24, 2025, 10:25 am

Just took another one on a lonely road during the sunset, just a few puffs off the joint. zen mood asf.

sharn - October 26, 2025, 2:37 am

I enjoy the quiet and freedom of night rides.

It feels like the city belongs only to me and I can go anywhere.
