Thread: No T in SKECHERS shoes - Did you know?

Hackers - October 21, 2025, 5:42 pm

Many people online swear that it was Sketchers, not Skechers.
Did you know there's no T in the shoe company Skechers?

Did you know how small the US, China, and India are?

<https://thetruesize.com/>

The maps they teach us are not accurate to actual sizes, they are over-optimized for shape and other factors.

Is this becoming a thread about random facts?

I think I also knew it was spelled Skechers without a T. It just didn't sound right if it did have a T in it.

yeah you inspired me to be a Snapple cap, of which 50% are said to be false - which could be weird if 50% of the caps state that same fact, which would make the other half 100% correct.

other factors.

I remember learning about this back in high school, when my teacher showed us the true sizes of the different countries and continents we were blown away by how much smaller or bigger they really were compared to how they're shown. It all comes down to power and ego, of course the most powerful countries wanted to be seen as such so they made sure to have their land mass seen much larger than it really is. It's kind of pathetic honestly.

Ayo what kind of sorcery is that

Darth Vader said:

NO, I AM YOUR FATHER.

https://youtu.be/_IOT2p_FCvA?t=64

He never said "Luke I am your father"
like many people might think they remember.

A lot of people also would've had a globe with Australia far away from everything, but it's actually really close to the islands

Here are some other similar false memories:

<https://www.goodhousekeeping.com/entertainment/g28438966/mandela-effect-examples/>

Many of these are known as the Mandela effect. It's when a large number of people remember something "as it were", but all evidence online suggests the memories are incorrect.

Sex AND the city

1 of the earliest Mandela effects I heard about - BerenSTAIN (not Stein) :

Looney Tunes, not Toons

There is no such thing as Captain Crunch. Only capn, no cap!

Pimping - October 21, 2025, 11:40 pm

I knew this as i live close to a skechers outlet and see the sign all the time hahaha

Speaking of percentages, you owe me a 700% interest rate

This is not something I knew I am not one to wear any of their shoes but I would go to spell it with a T.

DAL-SHA - October 22, 2025, 8:50 pm

Now that's some interesting random fact sir !!

Unfortunately , where I'm from , we don't have those .. ??

Yeah, I would've too and didn't know it had no T until a several years ago.

It was a surprise when I found out tbh

This is about as random as it gets.

But yes I knew

sharn - October 26, 2025, 4:30 am

Yep, I have got this one. It is spelled Skechers.
Some people just see what they expect to see.
