When you play a battle royale game, do you try to land somewhere quiet and loot first, or do you drop into a hot zone guns blazing? Another question is do you try to rat your way to the end or are you going for ultimate kill count?

HerrWinston - October 22, 2025, 5:58 pm

Really depends on what game I play, but 99% of the time, any hot zone trying to kill as many as possible. I am not a fan of waiting around until someone shoots me in the end, I just need action. :)

How about you?

It depends if I'm warmed up or not. Sometimes early in the night I like to rat a couple wins, then when I'm feeling good I drop into a hot zone and try to break a record.

Yeah I can relate to that, but I get back to ratting around very deep in the night, especially if I am playing with friends it sometimes adds fun to the game.

What battle royale game do you play?

Warzone or Fortnite. I haven't played much in a while. I really need to though before these Halloween events are over.

Oh nice, I did not expect that you would play fortnite lol, I just recently deinstalled the game because of its insane storage needs.

I've had it since it first came out. It's a pretty fun game. What do you play?

For Battle Royale, pretty much just fortnite, since yesterday also Battlefield 6, but other then that, Rocket League, Minecraft, Starcraft 2 and a few others.

How about you, only Warzone & Fortnite or also other games?

I never could get into Minecraft. Rocket League was too rage inducing. Pretty much just Warzone and Fortnite for me.

Ahh I see, absolutely understandable, I loved minecraft for its simplicity but also complexity, you can have chill nights just travelling around or projects taking weeks to finish, insane mechanisms only you can understand just for the grind :D

Rocket League is a very hard game in my opinion, until the time you get to the actual fun part most have already stopped playing because its just so frustrating to lose against someone hitting a turtle flip reset musty double psycho ground pinch double tap on you.

I couldn't get past Minecraft graphics. It's insane it's done as well as it has.

Really? The Graphics were never a problem for me, especially since I saw how insanely good shaders are. But I get it, its a turn off for many people, maaaybe you will reconsider! xD

Well it is a kids game, but something like that cant stop me, if a game is fun I play it, no matter the graphics. But I do know what you mean, I know a lot of people who swore to never touch the game because of its looks lol.

Well the movie really was for kids, no denying that, BUT I actually found a few scenes very funny, I went with a friend originally as a joke, but we enjoyed watching it in the cinema xD Have you watched it?

It was alright, just a little odd since I had no idea who or what any of the characters were.

Fair, thats a little unfortunate but most of the story part was pretty self explanatory.
