Scattered LAPSUS$ Hunters which if you haven't been living under a rock you would be very aware of

The new TOR site is now displaying a LEO takedown banner that some have said is just the breachforumstakedown.png

Is this a troll ? Are feds working on the weekend ? Thoughts ?

I've never heard about this name before, shame on me ? ?

From ChatGPT :

AI Quote:

"Scattered LAPSUS$ Hunters" refers to a group of cybersecurity researchers and threat hunters who organized themselves to track and analyze the activities of the LAPSUS$ hacker group. They are basically a community of independent investigators, security researchers, and SOC analysts who worked together to identify, monitor, and document LAPSUS$ members and operations.

Weird that LE would take down their website ? Or maybe they don't want them to interfere with operations from LE ?

Yeah nearly none of it makes sense

They can't be seized because they aren't part of the DNS , no registrar to compel = no way to seize the domain

you can only seize/exploit the servers they are on or exploit the site in some way

Probably a troll. The clearnet site was seized, yeah, but onion mirrors don't get "taken down" that easily. Someone just slapped the old banner on for laughs.
