Thanks Apple ???

Another good reason to run GrapheneOS

Well, any traces are admitted to be super old, but wiping log data is not good.

That's a major setback for digital forensics. Losing those traces could make detecting Pegasus infections much harder.

I think thats the point , why should the NSO group have to pay for being sued when its US 3 letter organizations using the software to spy on people

That's an interesting take. It does make you wonder how much of this is about privacy versus politics. And who actually benefits from erasing those traces.

Interesting i always thought apple was more secure especially with law enforcement and stuff

DAL-SHA - October 30, 2025, 5:20 am

Man , apple is not having good intentions when it comes users privacy .. That's ill man !

Now they are letting overseas LEO in your devices the US can't afford getting nailed for spying on citizens again since the whole snowden problem

Thats why you have the 5 eyes operations international now
