

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Hacking companion for beginners/intermediates

ButtBundy - October 30, 2025, 10:47 am

Hi all,

i'm working on a companion for beginning hackers. It gives you all the steps to conduct a hack and you can check them off once completed

[www\[.\]hackpack\[.\]xyz](#)

As it is work in progress I would love some feedback from beginners who use it.

Charlie Sheen - October 30, 2025, 11:00 am

(Oct 30, 2025 10:47 AM)ButtBundy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hi all,

i'm working on a companion for beginning hackers. It gives you all the steps to conduct a hack and you can check them off once completed

[www\[.\]hackpack\[.\]xyz](#)

As it is work in progress I would love some feedback from beginners who use it.

This is pretty neat. I think beginners would need links to tutorials on some of the items. Maybe either you could create a series of videos on YouTube or find some already made.

ButtBundy - October 30, 2025, 11:05 am

Didn't think of the tutorial thing as I intended it as a CTF companion where you are already following tutorials but indeed I will think about how to integrate it. I like to keep it as clean as possible so maybe some small YT logo when a video is available. Tnx for the feedback.

BTW is everyone getting the hackpack vs backpack in the logo or is it too far fetched.

I would love to some day sell some hackpack branded backpacks for Hackers :)

(Oct 30, 2025 11:00 AM)Charlie Sheen Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is pretty neat. I think beginners would need links to tutorials on some of the items. Maybe either you could create a series of videos on YouTube or find some already made.

I created an example in vulnerability discovery - Google Dorking. You should see a youtube icon. Something like that?