Thread: What award did you work the hardest for?

JoshAllen - November 3, 2025, 5:50 pm

Right now I am working on the QL award, and man it is hard.

Personally I don't think any of my awards were too hard to work for, but they did all require time and effort.

What award did you work HARD for? Or currently going for?

QL was actually the easiest award and first award i got hahaha got it back in 2020 though. the hardest award i had to grind for was the lounge head.... which i got yesterday

Hack game award. Took me about a year.

QL. I also think that took the most effort and focused attention.

My original account had the Phreak award. When it came out, I was the first user to get it. I put hundreds, if not thousands, of hours into the original mobile sections. RIP all that content.

Pumpkins for sure

I think other is somewhat easy to be achieved

Either Medal of Honor (Hack Game), or maybe the Green Pumpkin (the 30 threads killed me, I didn't want to make LQ thread so I worked a lot on HQ content).

The White Hat Helper took me a lot of time to get, but I enjoyed making White Hat / Cybersecurity tutorials, and helping other members with things such as malware removal

Ninja being in a different time zone and everything. I lost it numerous times accidentally at like 28%.

Then one time i lost it at 68% because I was teaching evening classes and I thought I'd done it that day but I hadn't.

I think I speak for most when I say its the Medal of Honor award.

Another one is the Warriors award I got granted after years of contributions towards the group.
