Criminal Lawyer Reacts to the CRAZY 'Perfect Neighbor' - Racist Karen Shoots Her Neighbor.

This woman really went around calling the little black children that played "too near" her tiny home "The Underground Railroad" Seriously what a sick fucking bitch. And then she killed their mother on purpose. I was skeptical of whether people were telling fake stories about her, but it seems more obvious from this video the story just makes her look worse and worse and she's lucky she only got the charges she did and not murder.

That's pretty messed up when the woman doesn't get charged with murder for a premeditated killing of someone.

When I was on my hoildays I watched this one night with the other half on netflix and was shocked to a point of why the police just wouldnt do anything about her before all of the shooting happened. Glad she got taken away for pretty much the rest of her life but sad to know the mother died.

I haven't seen the Netflix episode I've only seen YouTube episodes about it, but what was kind of hilarious is that when the police said to her "I'm going to have you go with this officer." She just says "No." And then she starts saying "No. I'm sorry I can't do this. No I'm not going to do it." And they say, "You're being arrested."

And she says "No. I'm not. I can't do this." And the policeman says. "Yes you are, You're now going to have to go to the jail now." And she says, "No. I'm not doing it. Don't touch me."

On the one hand it is kind of hilarious that she was all, "No I'm not going to jail because I'm just going to tell you, "Sorry I can't do this, so I'm not going."

Oh the other hand it's not so funny because....Yeah, I'm sure the 8 year old and ten year old kids were thinking, "No. I can't do this. I can't not have a mom anymore." Susan apparently looked up "Stand your ground," and then shot their mother through a locked metal door on a concrete home.

I have been behind a wooden door with someone bashing it in, so doors don't necessarily protect you, but this was apparently a deadlocked metal door on a concrete home. Bit different?

For sure, here in the UK, most doors are wooden, so it says a lot when you have a metal door there. I believe I remember hearing it was a double-bolted deadlock door too on the Netflix show I watched about this. The fact the woman thought it was okay to even shoot when they wouldn't even know if anyone was on the other side is a joke. At one point, I thought it was going to be said that she shot one of the children. I am thankful that it wasn't, but also not thankful that she honestly shot anyone in general honestly as I am pretty glad she got taken away for the rest of her life and I hope she never comes out of there. I remember seeing the court hearing, and she looked like she was aged about 30 years in just the space of a year and a few months, so clearly she had really started to feel like she shouldn't have done what she had, but if I had someone calling all the time here I would say it's time to get her taken away from the area she is the problem and to let kids be kids. I don't care if the mother did bang on the door hard or not. It doesn't give anyone a reason to blind shoot anyone and the fact she even said she felt threatened is like the Facebook police coming to your door and saying you called someone stupid. Grow up and just don't speak to them.

Did she have children? If so who is taking care of them right now?

The lady who shot the other one didn't have any children. The woman who was shot had kids. Their grandmother and father are looking after the little boys.

That is so fucked up.

She didn't even warn AJ that she had a gun and was going to use it. She didn't fire a warning shot. She brandished the gun at the children previously.
