

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Need reliable reddit upvotes & link plants as posts or comments

Hackers - November 9, 2025, 12:20 pm

I am looking for a service / seller that has reliable aged accounts that are posting actively, to maintain a good % ratio of link shares to normal comments. I can't use a service that risks blacklists for sources being shared

I'm open to different price points but am looking mostly for the most reliable service, with the goal being clickthrough rates to various websites, pages, or videos

I am also wondering if anyone has reddit bots that are setup for specific niches / subreddits, so that the upvotes are not all from first-time visitors to the subreddit. Stealth is important

I do not need that many upvotes per post, but would need to simulate some comment activity per post. I usually try to boost it only a little bit, so the post can get out of New feed and into people's real feeds. Then if the post doesn't take off on its own, I can kill it, but if it shows some real traction, I then boost it a second time to help it move quick. This is important to me - the timing must be accurate for real user browsing. I am not interested in the total counts, I have a strategy I've used in the past for "going viral" within subreddits and home feeds. We cannot just throw 100 votes at it in first 10 minutes in a small subreddit, there must be time for it to appear organic. I may also be doing cross-posting so a post goes out in subreddit1, and then the cross post takes off in subreddit2, another fun trick for faking organic activity.

Please do not start a contract until we have spoken first about pricing / amounts, so we can decide on a starting test. I'm looking for long term plans, not a one-time offer, and I do not want to hear from anyone who hasn't done this for others here on HF.

[contract=tid]Start Contract[/contract]