GLWS, btw, you should give a good portfolio work example instead of a forum development which will bring in more sales, unless you dev designing themes which is a different case, but even if you do dev themes, you should provide a theme portfolio as it can bring in a lot of sales and say for example mybb forums is better to sell mybb themes then in HF and most of the HF users know to install mybb or phpbb or other forum software now a days as it been a pre-install system with softaculous from cpanel.

GLWS!

GLWS!

I make Forums from scratch, not with any pre-built frameworks/software

But thanks for your advice :)
