Thread: Before launch meme coin trade signals easiest profit?

Does anyone else do this?

I tried it last month and it works very well here I mean this method you simply get signals before the launch of a new viral coin you buy when the price is low and when it comes to the market and the price rises you sell and that's it!

people doing similar things what are your experiences?

There are multiple signs before buying (aping) into a memecoin.

I've been trading memecoins for about 2-3 years now..

Volume
Check wallets
Rug checker
Bundles etc
X profile
Boosts

Im not good at trading memecoins but I managed to make a few X3-X5 this year! ?

I made a pretty elaborate meme coin tracking system that monitored price (no 3rd parties, all directly from the solana blockchain) and would send alerts based on certain movement. I was thinking of other blockchain data to incorporate into the signals but never did. Missed one big opportunity and never made any money besides that but it was a great project.

If anyone's interested in collaborating for better signals or paying me for access, please dm. I could add your own custom price/blockchain filters too and you could get personal notifications. All alerts were over telegram. It only tracked raydium token launches from the pump.fun migration address. I don't know if I'll add support for others.

Stopped using it around April so there probably needs to be some fixes.

This is gambling, not investing.

You should avoid this.

I've operated a successful ml & algo that was focused on calls around 15k-20k mcap

It was very focused on as much on-chain data in math relating to all the available info

Lot of apis & data went into it - we sunset because when there's only few tokens barely passing 1m mcap it becomes a waste of time to manage constantly.

But we had some runners even go to 500m+ and had a ~44% hit rate. In the right meta it performs very well, in bad times with high volatility it needs more fine tuning.

I was trying to detect the beginning of runs with my system (like the start of a coin being shared on X by real users). The base signal I had was a minimum increase in price with a minimum volume over the past few candles. Then I was trying to figure out how to categorize those trade transactions as either bot or user. 99%+ of the time upticks were just bot activity. The biggest opportunity I missed was an alert I got 2 minutes after a big streamer tweeted the CA. To me, it's a retarded market that shouldn't exist but it was fun to treat it like a video game and I could've made enough money to justify it if I hadn't fallen asleep 25 minutes early lol. I agree it's gambling when lacking certain considerations. There didn't seem to any connection between the creativity behind a token and it's success unfortunately. Crypto in general also isn't investing.
