Thread: Which skills I can learn to freelance and make just \$600/month?

JNath - November 14, 2025, 9:19 pm

Hello Hackforums, please someone this time guide me in the right way as I really need help. Guys can you tell me which skills you have experience with or still working on which I can learn and make just $600/month. $600/month is 50K INR in my country which is enough for the basic survival in my country. I hope somebody guides me in the right direction. I'll be very thankful to you.

The art of selling and sales in general. Also damn you're lucky only $600/month is so fucking insane to think about lol. I'm lucky if 6k a month covers everything.

Sales can be done from your home. Find something people need and sell a product. Fill the gap against your competitors with a good sales plan.

Buy.

Sell for more.

Osint , pentesting, for exemple.

There are many US-based companies that outsource their work.

Contractors at my company mostly come from South America and live like kings based on their pay from here. I think they make around $700 - $800 a month

So, if I were in your position, I would look into contracting for an IT position. They're web developers, for added context.
