Thread: Dont want a hand out just breathing and expressing my self

Truplaya - November 15, 2025, 1:33 am

My mom and dad just died in a crash, my bitch ex dumped our 2 little kids on me and ran off. Used to pull big bucks offshore but can't leave my babies now. Broke as fuck, suicidal, been digging into hacking tutorials but it's overwhelming as shit. Trying
To keep trucking it's hard. Not asking for nothing just venting

Truplaya - November 15, 2025, 2:14 am

Thank you man trying

RangoWorld - November 15, 2025, 2:14 am

We hear you. Have you tried therapy?

Truplaya - November 15, 2025, 2:17 am

Yeah actually I'm in therapy or was up until a few weeks ago. My money problems and being a single parent have over weighed my feeling of loss and betrayal so much I think it's saved me cause I'm to stressed and tired to sit down and think. Thank you for being there it means a lot

Hey buddy, sorry to hear that, no worries to express yourself if you need, be aware that's not something people should be shy or ashamed of. Just shared a thread few days ago too :

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=6313485>

Regarding learning hacking, well you're right it's not that easy because it requires a lot of time / dedication, you have to learn different fields, each of them composed of sub-domains, and so on. If your plan is to make money from hacking because you're broke, there is likely no chance you could earn money during the first year at least, unless you're very talented.

I was followed by a psychologist for a year when everything went wrong, having someone to talk with is very important and I'm glad you're in a therapy now :)

In case you still want to learn hacking, register and start practicing here : tryhackme.com, there are hundreds of free rooms, you can hack the dedicated servers, with Kali Linux, like real hackers do :p

Hope things will be better for you, and hope to see you around mate ?

Sorry to hear this, that's a lot for anyone to deal with

You're more man than most here, remember that.

Keep your head up, things will be different, but they will be better soon.

Yo, first off, I am so sorry. Secondly, you can vent any time you want, you shouldn't have to feel obligated to state you aren't here for sympathy or a hand out. Sounds like you've had a sh*t experience elsewhere online from others.

You'll find that a lot of us, myself included, have demons they deal with on a consistent basis. Since you have kids, I am sure I do not need to tell you how life is not easy nor was it meant to be, even for those who do not have such "demons." One thing I can tell you (and this is coming from someone who is sick of people telling me the same; although it has bearing) is that things WILL get better.

Sometimes, faith is everything. But you gotta have faith in yourself to overcome any challenge this life throws your way. It might be different for others, I won't blow smoke up your ass and tell you that it will be all rose pedals moving forward because I literally built my entire life back up from a very very very dark spot. I hit a breaking point and told myself enough was enough and never looked back. The fortitude you gain sticks with you and each day, the more bullshit you deal with, the stronger it makes you. Eventually, the bullshit becomes normal and you rise from the ashes.

Best of luck to you.

Stay stong brother. This too shall pass. Tough battles are built for the strongest warriors, keep your head up and push through with faith and the universe will reward you accordingly. I hope to see you around when you overcome this tough moment. Brighter days ahead brother
