I find that shocking. SQL injections seem to be so rare.

Bunk. You keep spamming invalid SQL injection tests.

Yeah, you'll get a basic heuristic result that shows a possible vulnerability and no database if SQLmap will even accept the URL.

Fools despise correction.

They are all injectable.. i scan and feed spoon you they results.
All you gotta do os eat they papa soup and not play with they food
Salmão injects most of them
Even sqldump and jsq1 can do ir
Manually they are 99% vulnerável
But
If my de free "rare" vulns are not of tour liking, you grace, maybe you should do better yourself
Pretty straight forward i just crawl and scan
And you get ir raw from they results
Industry standard methodology
Free fresh private 0 day leaks
My Processing power working in prol of they comunity
But, some how fthis help isnt beening well received
Well, allow me sir to say that, for someone without time, you sure do haver they will and energy to flame my thread
I Will jeep posting
You are at ease gentleman, do as you wish
But a thanks you would suit you better

Cheers

Give me one SQL record out of those databases, and I will call you a genius for having found a new type of injection.

Dude just admit you been silly and load them on sqlmap or any other tool

Load them all at once on SQL dumper

I tried a few from before. These nonsense '.php/'? injections give an error but have no SQLi statements that dump anything. I asked for proof of a successful dump but got nothing. Keep hammering away finding fake vulns if you want.

I should just ignore you, but I hate arrogant snots bragging about nonsense hacks.

Hey man he got a HTTP response from each

"But he's right ??? *.ru sites are totally worthless.

What does it matter that sqlmap shows an error? We'll pick 10 of the same sites and have a competition for who hacks more—it's a long way from copy-paste to dbs.

Sqlmap is helpful for automation, but often there is a vulnerability and it doesn't see it; you have to show it the way...

And secondly haha Your method, how did you come up with that? This is not a vulnerability at all; it's a false positive, WAF evasion, and yet you keep giving *.ru links which have no value. Just leave that Russia alone.

Why via DM/PM? Find something good."
