While I appreciate the suggestion, there will always only be one winner for my contests.. I'm content with just one person winning the final amount. Goal is for one person to receive an amount that will significantly help them out financially.. breaking it down into 3 winners, doesn't give that same feel in my opinion. So one winner it shall be.

But nonetheless, this time I did give additional opportunities to increase your chance of winning the contest.. I would strongly suggest taking advantage of those opportunities to improve your possibility of winning.

One winner is always better, one lucky person gets to have the prize.
