Thread: Need workers to spread crypto malware

malcomx777 - November 26, 2025, 6:32 am

Need workers to spread malware to steal crypto. Made a malware that can steal Ledger funds (ask for seed phrase).

There are websites where people buy properties or luxurious watches with crypto. Just need to act like a buyer/seller and at some point during the conversation send them the malicious attachment.

It's a lot of social engineering and I can't do everything on my own. Pm if interested or hmu on tele: <https://t.me/Freebandz75>

Who receives the 30, and who gets the 70?

The affiliate gets 30% obviously.

Pretty sure SE with a GUI that requests a seed phrase for access to Ledger is not allowed here.

Financial Fraud:

Quote:The intentional misrepresentation of information or identity to deceive others, the unlawful use of a credit or debit card or ATM, or the use of electronic means to transmit deceptive information, in order to obtain money or other things of value. Fraud may be committed by someone inside or outside the business.

Read the Help Docs & disallowed activity:

This sounds like a misrepresentation of information to deceive others && the unlawful use of electronic means to transmit deceptive information, in order to obtain money.

Am i wrong?

Not to mention that a random app that looks like Ledger Live and requests a seed phrase out of the blue seems horribly suspicious.

Sounds like they must have a convincing SE method to help them pull it off. I wouldn't personally run an executable just because I'm buying a watch, but I understand some people are silly.

I'm out of here, but if people actually want crypto to be decentralized for widespread adoption, this kind of thread doesn't help at all.

It's not a random app, it interacts with the real Ledger App. And I don't think it's more suspicious than those kids who make bank impersonating Ledger/Coinbase/Gmail customer support and ask to send the funds to some random wallet over the phone
