Fish left in the trash overnight.
That smell is an act of violence.

Which smell would you erase from existence?

Kind of the same, but a little different.

That weird fishy smell sometimes when it rains, and maybe there's just enough moisture or just enough humidity to make it smell like that. I fucking hate it.

Farts , way too nasty for me

Farts that come after someone has too many fish burgers.

Smell of hardcore sweat when people pass by in a gym or a long exercise session.

Farts/poop. I understand a bad smell, but someday you might think it can kill you.

Smell of loads of cigarettes in a room. Plus farts

I think the accumulated smell from 10 people being locked into an elevator for two weeks would be worth erasing.

They would have to poop on the floor, which would cause at least a few of them to vomit, adding to the smell.

On top of that smell of poop and vomit, there would be the smell of rotting corpses, as nobody survives without water for two weeks.

If you have ever had the displeasure of smelling insulin.

That. Or like you said, fish left in the trash overnight.
