Thread: The last thing that made you laugh out loud

My dog barked at the vacuum cleaner and ended up sliding across the floor.

What is a moment that made you laugh out loud recently?

I'm seriously scratching my head. Because it is very rare for me to laugh out on floor like that.

Maybe I need something. Do you guys have something to share that will make me laugh like that? I'll appreciate.

Watching HerrWinston waste a lot of his bytes was pretty cool, and made my Monday blues that little bit less blue and more cyan.

For me it's the cartoon smiling friends the character the boss is funny. It's like he does thins randomly and no one expects it coming.

If you want a in real live moment it would be back in college. I was in the 3rd floor building waiting or my tax class. The class before mine was calculus math.

So, I would sit by the window until that class is dismissed. I would look down out of the window watchin students walk in the plaza park below which is just grass trees and sidewalk paths going from one building to another. There was a squirrel that would go into the trash cans and this was during spring time.

The squirrel I seen it climb into the trash can. Then these 2 college girls had ate their lunch and they were going to throw away their brown bags.

So, they threw it in the trashcan and the squirrel jumps out. These 2 girls scream so loud that anyone can hear them and everyone looked at them and then laughed when they understood the squirrel jumped out of the trashcan and scared the 2 girls.

I laughed so hard because I knew it was going to happen. I was like what if someone throws something in it. So, I was watching the can and noticed the 2 walking towards it. ?

I will keep bullying Stanley until either I get neg-repped by him, or I get the Stanley lover award.

There is no middle ground, new members will think I am actively bullying someone, only to find out it's the helper bot and I am just a parasocial freak who harasses a digital entity.

I want to start a Group just to call it Stanley Haters and make every post end in Death to Byte Stealer Stanley.

DTBSS? It sounds like a DB tool.... Hmm... Might workshop this maybe.

That was my favorite part of the day. Going into the convo, it is hard not seeing someone losing bytes lol.
